RAIDER ON PACIFIC—The German liner Scharnhorst, in port at Kobe, Japan, is being converted into a commerce raider, it is reported in a Tokyo newspaper. Built when Germany was not allowed to build battleships, it is believed she may be armor-plated and fitted with gun mountings. British ships in Japanese waters are keeping secret the time they are due in Japanese ports.

200 Shots Fired In Naval Fight

COPENHAGEN (AP)—Danish fishermen and police officials reported indications today that a naval engagement may have occurred in the Strait of Kattegatt, between Sweden and Denmark.

A line of ships northeast of Laeso Island was sighted by the island's police chief, who said sounds of cannonading came from the vessels.

About 200 shots were fired before the sounds stopped, the police official said after watching with binoculars. He was unable to determine the character of the line of vessels.

Fishermen who ply the Strait, an arm of the North Sea leading to the Baltic, said they heard cannonading which could come only from warships.

The Aalborg newspaper Amstidende reported heavy cannon fire from points east of the Island of Laeso was heard between last midnight and noon today, and was too heavy to be practice firing.

THYSSEN FLEES?

PARIS—Fritz Thyssen, famed German industrialist often rumored to have been an early supporter of Nazism, is reported by the Radio Agency today to have fled from Germany.

Double Navy Crews

OTTAWA—Canada will double its naval personnel, in addition to organizing two army divisions for service overseas if necessary, and will also intensify air force training and construct a large number of anti-submarine craft.

French 'No' to Hitler

PARIS (AP)—Newspapers today declared Hitler's peace offer in his Danzig speech was "fair, clear," and one said: "Our answer is 'no,' because we do not want to begin the war again in six months under even worse conditions. Hitlerism must be destroyed."

Army Rejects Hotel

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Vancouver city council today abandoned plans for converting the old Hotel Vancouver building, left vacant several months ago with the opening of the big new hotel, into a military and naval headquarters. Brigadier J. C. Stewart, officer commanding the Military District No. 11, which includes Vancouver, said the building was not suitable for such use.

3 HURT IN BLAST IN SS. NOOTKA

KETCHIKAN, Alaska (AP)—Three Canadian seamen were severely injured today when an explosion in the number 4 hold of the Canadian Pacific freighter Nootka wrecked a hatch and did minor damage to the vessel's stern.

The explosion was attributed to coal damp. It was heard eight miles away on the Ketchikan waterfront, from where the ship had sailed for Sitka.

The injured seamen, all taken to a hospital, because of burns suffered in a subsequent fire, are Boden Storey, Sidney, Vancouver Island; William Wilson, Winnipeg; and John Sandberg of Port Arthur, B.C.

The freighter's master, Capt. M. MacKinnon, declined comment but said the ship was not seriously damaged.

VANCOUVER (CP)—Canadian Pacific Coast steamship officials here report the company's freighter Ketchikan, damaged by fire near Ketchikan, Alaska, today was carrying a cargo of coal northward. The vessel had also on board, they stated, some gasoline and explosives for mining supplies.

CANBERRA (CP)—Prime Minister Menzies told the House of Representatives today he would consider a suggestion a referendum be held before any Australian forces are sent overseas.

Bohemia Revolt, Many Executed, British Report

LONDON (CP)—The Ministry of Information today said a revolutionary movement was reported in Bohemia and Moravia last Sunday.

The movement was said to have followed labor demonstrations in Prague which developed into "serious clashes" Saturday night and despite "ruthless" repressive measures by the Germans the fight against superior forces was continuing.

"Firearms were used on both sides and the casualties are said to have been considerable," the communiqué said.

"Between the 17th and 18th of September riots took place at a number of places in Bohemia and Moravia, among others Pardubice, Pilsen, Tabor, Pisek and Brunn."

The communiqué said that on September 19 Slovak garrisons at several places revolted and "about 15,000 troops have been disarmed."

"It stated that arrests throughout the protectorate ran 'into thousands, those executed into hundreds."

"The fact that this is not just a flash in the pan is shown by the unanimity of purpose, the tenacity and the discipline of the participants."

"Those who had no firearms seized any weapon handy. Laborers, wives in Prague were content with boards studded with nails with which to strike the enemy."

"While it lasted the fight was relentless and grim, with no quarter given by either side."

French Deserters in B.C. Get Amnesty Chance

Fernand Gallat, consul for France for western Canada, announced today that an amnesty has been decreed for all defaulters and deserters of French nationality who shall apply to the consulate for the purpose of enlistment within the next 30 days.

'No Hitler Truce' Says Chamberlain Italy Out to Lead S. Europe Neutrals

Duce Recalls Troops From Greek Border

By the Canadian Press
Reports from Balkan capitals and tightening Italian-Spanish relations indicated today that Italy gradually is assuming leadership of a neutral bloc extending from the Black Sea to the Atlantic Ocean.

In Rome authoritative sources said it was only natural that Italy, as the most powerful European neutral, should undertake the role of guiding southern Europe.

The neutral bloc was described as "an unwritten community of interests," with Italy the frontal nation in close diplomatic relationship with Spain, Hungary, Yugoslavia, Bulgaria, Roumania and Greece.

With Italy steering clear of the war, Spain was reported more distant toward Germany but warm to Italy.

Despite Russia's assurances of neutrality, there were indications she intends to dominate the north Baltic, where she is said to want an ice-free port.

The Copenhagen newspaper Berlingske Tidende said British sources believe it is only a question of time before Estonia and Latvia will be incorporated in the Soviet.

ITALIAN TROOPS WITHDRAW

ROME (AP)—Italy announced today the withdrawal of her troops from the Albanian-Greek frontier as evidence of "complete reciprocal trust" between Italy and Greece.

Concrete proof of reciprocal trust has been given "by the decision of the Italian government to withdraw its military forces from the Greek-Albanian frontier in line with analogous provisions which the Greek government is adopting on its part," said the Italian communiqué.

Italy occupied Albania in a brief Easter week-end campaign which carried Italian troops to the Greek frontier.

War May Help Lumber Trade

Activity of British Columbia's lumber industry may be maintained despite the war, according to forestry branch officials.

"Naturally," one official said, "Britain's supply from the Baltics will be curtailed and there is every chance British Columbia will get a larger share of the United Kingdom market, providing there is not a serious lack of ships. For the present, of course, this situation is uncertain."

For 'Cash-and-carry'

WASHINGTON, D.C.—Ex-Governor Landon, Republican presidential candidate at the last election, invited here to confer with President Roosevelt in a non-partisan gathering at the White House, today said: "Sentiment in favor of a cash-and-carry system, amending the neutrality act, is very strong and this is my opinion too."

Butter, Flour Increases To Be Investigated

EDMONTON (CP)—Investigation into meat and vegetable prices will be undertaken by the Alberta price spreads board it was announced today by W. D. King, board chairman and deputy minister of trade and industry.

The board will meet tomorrow to discuss increases in flour and butter prices.

'Heigh-ho, Heigh-ho, Away to War We Go'

LONDON—Although "Tipperary," "Long, Long Trail" and other old war songs are being sung, the most popular tune among the troops going to the front now is "Heigh-ho" from "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs."

The soldiers have changed the words of the pulsating lines to "Heigh-ho, heigh-ho, away to war we go," from the original "heigh-ho, heigh-ho, away to work we go."

WAR ROLES—King George and Queen Elizabeth are active in bringing the encouragement of their presence to Britons engaged in war work. Above, Her Majesty inspects a London decontamination squad of volunteers dressed in gasproof clothes. Their job is to clear gassed areas after bombardments. Behind the queen is King George, arrow, wearing a Royal Air Force uniform.

'3 Cheers For Stalin' —George Bernard Shaw

LONDON (CP)—George Bernard Shaw, the playwright, wrote the editor of The Times today that he considered the news from Soviet Russia "good news for us, as far as any war news can be called good."

"The question," said Shaw, "is not whether Mr. Molotov's speech resembles certain utterances of Herr Hitler's or not. What concerns us is whether Mr. Molotov's statements are true or not. They are obviously true to the last syllable."

Shaw added: "We have encouraged Poland to fight by our pledge to support her; and we have encouraged ourselves by silly reports that the Polish army was unbroken and that the Poles were performing prodigies of valor. The truth, as we now have to admit, and as Mr. Molotov notes, is that our support has so entirely failed that the Polish resistance has been wiped out, and with it the Polish army and the Polish government, leaving Poland derelict to be picked up and put on by Herr Hitler as a shepherd putteth on his garment."

"At this point, we being helpless, Mr. Stalin steps in and says 'Not quite. If the Ukraine and White Russia are going begging, Russia will occupy them, Hitler or no Hitler.'"

"No sooner said than done. The red army is in occupation. Mr. Stalin, who was very explicit as to his objection to being made a cat's paw to take our chestnuts off the fire, has no objection whatever in using Herr Hitler as a cat's paw. The unfortunate Fuehrer is compelled to disgorge half his booty and to face yet another army saying 'thus far and no farther.'"

"And instead of giving three cheers for Stalin we are shrieking that all is lost."

"Mr. Stalin lately sent us a photograph of himself laughing at us. When will we learn to laugh at ourselves?"

Peebles Takes Ottawa Post

The chairman of the British Columbia Health Insurance Commission, Dr. Allan Peebles, has been granted indefinite leave of absence to take up a post at Ottawa in connection with war work.

Hon. G. M. Weir, Provincial Secretary, announced today that Dr. Peebles has gone to the federal capital, but did not disclose the nature of his new work.

He said the commission chairman, who has a seven-year contract with the government, has not severed his connection with the board permanently.

Big Work Contracts Here Are Awarded

Contracts for upwards of $500,000 in federal government works in and around Victoria have just been let, it was reported today.

No details of the awards have been announced but it is understood the firms participating in the work will be Parfitt Bros. Ltd., Luney Bros. Ltd., Carter, Halls, Aldinger, and Dawson, Wade and Co. Ltd.

"They are understood to cover undertakings that have been in mind for some time."

Army Here Calls More Recruits

A new call for recruits was given by Brigadier J. S. Stewart, D.O.C. of Military District No. 11, today, following Ottawa's announcement that a Canadian division for possible use as an expeditionary force will be organized.

Since the first rush, the Brigadier said, recruiting has been remarkably slow, with an average of only 75 to 100 men joining the colors.

The main movement, he said, is to join the defense forces, particularly on Vancouver Island, while the mobile units that might see active service have several gaps.

He said the P.P.C.L.I., Canadian Scottish Regiment and Coast Brigade Artillery still require numbers of men.

Britain Winning In Anti-Sub Drive, Premier Reports

By J. F. SANDERSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer
LONDON—Great Britain and France will not be deterred from their task of ridding the world of Hitlerism by Russia's invasion of eastern Poland, Prime Minister Chamberlain declared in the House of Commons today.

Nor will the two allied democracies be influenced by threats from Adolf Hitler. The Reichsfuehrer's speech in Danzig yesterday "does not change the situation with which we are confronted," said Mr. Chamberlain.

To a House dotted by members in uniform, the Prime Minister declared Britain's resources "are being steadily and surely marshalled." He cautioned the nation not to expect too much all at once.

Jospe Stalin's orders to the Red army were not unexpected in London, Mr. Chamberlain declared, and could not be justified by argument put forward.

It was still too early "to pronounce any final verdict on the motives or consequences of the Russian action," Mr. Chamberlain continued, almost biting off these words:

"For the unhappy victim of this cynical attack the result has been tragedy of the grimmest character. The world, which has watched the vain struggle of the Polish nation against overwhelming odds with profound pity and sympathy, admires their valor which even now refuses to admit defeat."

PLEDGE TO POLAND

"If Britain and France have been unable to avert defeat of the armies of Poland, they have assured her they have not forgotten their obligations to her, nor weakened in their determination to carry on the struggle."

An unusual note crept into the voice of the man dressed in sombre black clothes when he referred to Hitler's Danzig speech. He noted Hitler's references to the humane method by which he had waged the war.

"I can only say that methods are not made humane by calling them so, and the accounts of German bombings of open towns and the machine-gunning of refugees have shocked the whole world," he said.

At this point Mr. Chamberlain's indignation prompted him to stray from his carefully prepared speech. His voice betrayed his deep emotion when he said extemporaneously:

"What I have searched for in vain in his speech is one single word that Hitler remembers the brave men who have already lost their lives in this quarrel of his making, or their wives and children who have been bereft forever of the head of their family because their leader's lust for power had to be satisfied."

Resuming his text, the Prime Minister continued: "I have only one general comment to make. Our general purpose in this struggle is well known. It is to redeem Europe from perpetual and recurring fear of German aggression and enable the peoples of Europe to preserve their independence and liberties. No threats will deter us or our French allies from this purpose."

"It is not our way in this country to speak with boasts and threats. Perhaps for that very reason the German leaders have difficulty in understanding us."

WILL PUBLISH FACTS

He said Hitler's "misstatements of fact included his declaration France had agreed to Italian mediation while Britain refused it. The Prime Minister said a new white paper would be issued tomorrow, "so that public opinion may have no difficulty in forming its final judgments."

With the apparent purpose of allaying public anxiety as to whether the Allies were striking vigorously enough against Germany, Mr. Chamberlain declared: "There is no sacrifice from which we will shrink. There is no operation we will not undertake provided our responsible advisers, our Allies and we ourselves are convinced that it will make an appropriate contribution to victory."

He declared against uncertain adventures "calculated to impair our resources and to postpone ultimate victory."

"One lesson which military history teaches is that that road leads to disaster," he said.

STRATEGY OF CONCENTRATION

Strategy, Mr. Chamberlain went on, is "the art of concentrating decisive force at the decisive point at the decisive moment."

"The scale of our preparations and the fact already announced that we are basing them on the assumption that duration of the war may be at least three years ensure that our strength will increase progressively to meet whatever may come."

The Prime Minister referred to preparations in the Dominions to take a full share in the war effort and declared the resources of the Empire "in the aggregate are stronger and more powerful than at the outset of any past war."

ATTITUDE TO NEUTRALS

He said Britain's attitude toward neutral nations was "in striking contrast to the policy pursued by Germany."

ANTI-U-BOAT DRIVE

Mr. Chamberlain said "it is already clear that the navy and merchant marine will be able to maintain essential supplies of raw materials and food for this country."

The navy anti-submarine campaign in two weeks had achieved more results than were accomplished "over much longer periods in the last war," he said, adding that "already six or seven submarines had paid the full penalty."

He emphasized this was a decidedly low estimate, an understatement, because of the difficulty in determining when a U-boat had been sunk by depth charges.

In some cases, Mr. Chamberlain said "crews of U-boats have been captured."

April, 1917, was the peak month of British losses by submarines and mines in the first Great War, the average weekly sinkings amounting to 39 ships and 127,000 tons. During the week ended September 12 last British losses were 17 ships, 95,000 tons, and for the week ended September 19, 13 ships, 45,848 tons.

This decrease between the first and second weeks of the war had been partly due to the working of the convoy system, now increasingly in operation.

The Prime Minister said 139 lives, both British and neutral, had been lost from submarine attack, excluding casualties through the sinking of the aircraft-carrier Courageous. In addition 44 persons were missing.

"The great difference between the last war and this one," said Mr. Chamberlain, "is that, whereas in the last war we were on the defensive against the U-boat campaign, we are now carrying out an offensive against the U-boats and they are continuously and relentlessly attacked whenever they disclose themselves."

(Earlier Winston Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, had said there was "every reason to believe" the submarine which sank the aircraft carrier Courageous last Sunday had been sunk subsequently.)

Arthur Greenwood, acting leader of the opposition, charged Russia had become an aggressor and declared "it is a matter of very deep regret that Poland was not provided more generously with sorely-needed assistance."

Britain, France Out to Win, But Not Being Rash

CHICAGO—Britain and France must not lose the war—that is the first and by all means the most dominant thought in the minds of Britishers and Frenchmen, says a special London staff cable to the Chicago Daily News.

This is the thought which has fortified them against the attacks of critics who charge that Britain and France have not done their duty by the Poles and that something, and something violent, must be done to Germany now.

Poland, runs this line of reasoning, boldly chose to fight the Germans from the very moment they reached her frontiers—a fight which was hopeless as far as the possibility of defending those frontiers was concerned.

NOT AS RASH

Hats off to Poland, but this does not mean that everybody else must be as rash, say the strategists. It does not mean, for instance, that Britain and France must, without adequate preparation, undertake a suicidal assault against Germany which might permanently deplete their manpower and jeopardize the primary objective of the war—to smash Adolf Hitler.

It does not mean that in order to smash Hitler, France and Britain must allow themselves to be beaten.

This war, as it is seen from London, is going to be a long, gruelling affair, and it is not necessarily going to be won by the side which does the most attacking.

Fighting may go on in the air and on land, and there may be incidents at sea, but there is also Britain's mighty contraband control which is now stretching its fingers out into all corners of the world.

This control will not cripple the German military machine within a week, or a month, or perhaps six months. But with a modicum of co-operation from neutral powers, it will exert constant and growing pressure on Germany and eventually, like an old harpoon, working its way through the body of a whale, may reach her "life".

Thus, there is a disposition to go about things with more deliberation than some of the actionists find it pleasant to behold. This does not, of course, mean that nothing can be expected to happen on the Western front.

FRENCH GAINS

News from France indicates that the French definitely are probing the front yard of the Siegfried line, are gaining positions of advantage for their guns, and are inflicting some punishment on the Siegfried line itself by means of artillery bombardments and bombing from the air. Any drug store strategist can see that the French are testing the Germans and that something important may happen.

What it does mean is that the failure of the French and British to assault or to puncture the Siegfried line in the early stages of the war must not be ascribed to any lack of determination on their part, and it will not mean that they have stopped fighting before they have really begun.

Australian Metals

CANBERRA, Australia (CP)—Prime Minister Robert Menzies today announced Great Britain would buy the complete Australian export surplus of refined zinc, a large proportion of the lead surplus and a specified percentage of copper at prices approximately equal to those prevailing before the war.

(Previous arrangements announced included purchase by Britain of Australia's wool clip and raw sugar surplus.)

Ministry Switch Seen No Surprise

OTTAWA (Special)—Transference of the portfolio of the Ministry of Defence from Hon. Ian Mackenzie to Hon. Norman Rogers, formerly Minister of Labor, caused no surprise on Parliament Hill. When Great Britain entered the war, thereby presaging Canada's participation, informed sources heard that the British Columbia cabinet member had tendered his resignation so that the Prime Minister might be free to effect any changes desirable.

Observers in touch with the trend of cabinet discussion assert Mr. Mackenzie reached his decision to relinquish the portfolio because of criticism leveled at him since the Davis royal commission exonerated him and his department of charges in connection with the Bren gun contract. It is learned that in spite of the Prime Minister's reluctance to accept a valued colleague's resignation as head of such a vital department, the Vancouver member remained adamant.

It is felt here that Mr. Mackenzie's qualifications will be valuable and make for continued efficient administration of the important portfolio of Pensions and National Health he has accepted.

Russia Sends More Troops Into Poland

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet Russia was reported authoritatively today to have called up more army reservists, although the number was not disclosed.

Unofficial sources intimated they were sent to some sector of Russia's western frontier, beyond which Red army forces were officially announced as having occupied the industrial city of Lwow in the southeast Polish Ukraine.

At the same time Soviet and German officers started conferences arising from their joint military occupation of Poland.

(German communiques for several days had said German troops had penetrated to Lwow outskirts on three sides of the city. Lwow is in southeastern Poland.)

The same war communique which told of entry of Soviet Russian troops into Lwow also said Russians had captured Wilno (Vilna), in northeast Poland, near the Lithuanian border, after a "two-hour battle."

Four German officers arrived yesterday to assist the German military attaché in Moscow, Lieut.-Gen. Ernest Koestring, in discussions with the Russians. It was rumored the Soviet military attaché in Berlin, who also holds a general's rank, had come here for the talks.

Submarine Hunted Off Nova Scotia

HALIFAX (CP)—The Commander of the Naval Dockyard here, Commander H. E. Reid, issued a statement last night which read:

"Fairly reliable reports indicate a submarine may have been operating off the Nova Scotia coast today.

"Search by sea and air was instituted. As a result, a destroyer dropped a depth charge in a suspicious area.

"Results of the attack by the destroyer are unknown."

Source of the report the submarine was off this province was not disclosed.

At offices of the eastern command of the Royal Canadian Air Force, an officer stated R.C.A.F. planes flying in this vicinity yesterday had seen "nothing" of the reported sub.

"I'm certain if it had been near the surface our machines would have seen it," the official said.

While the navy did not reveal the spot where the depth charge had been dropped, shore observers said a destroyer had been seen to discharge one off Chabucto Head, at the mouth of outer Halifax harbor. A spout of water shot skyward behind the warship, they said.

Germans Renew Warsaw Air Raids

BUDAPEST (7:40 p.m.—10:40 a.m., P.S.T.) (AP)—Besieged Warsaw was raided four times today by German air squadrons, the Polish capital's radio station announced.

"Incendiary bombs were dropped on the Red Cross hospital which caught fire," the Warsaw announcer said.

Despite continued heavy bombing and machine-gunning, he said volunteers rushed into the building to remove patients.

The heaviest raid was said to have started at 5:30 p.m. (8:30 a.m., P.S.T.) and lasted for more than 30 minutes.

Nazis Yield to Soviet In Dividing Up Poland

10,000,000 IN POLISH MINORITY GROUPS—Soviet troops have marched into Poland ostensibly for the protection of the White Russian and Ukrainian minorities. Poland's total population is about 35,000,000. Of this number, 10,000,000 comprise minorities, the six main ethnic groups being shown on the map. The largest minority group is that of the Ukrainians in the south.

By ALVIN J. STEINPOFF

BERLIN—The German high command disclosed today Germany and Soviet Russia have reached an agreement on the partition of Poland, at least so far as their armies of occupation are concerned.

That the demarcation line has been set was announced in a high command communique which, however, did not say where the line runs.

It asserted German forces would withdraw from their present positions after "destruction of the last remnants of the Polish army there" to the "demarcation line definitely fixed between the German and Russian governments."

Whether this line lies east or west of Warsaw was not indicated. The communique claimed German forces have advanced to a line running from Stryj, in southeast Poland, north near the industrial city of Lwow, thence almost straight north to Brzesc (Brest-Litovsk), about 160 miles from the Soviet frontier, and up to Bialystok, about 150 miles from the Russian border.

The entire Rumanian frontier, bordering southeast Poland, is in Polish hands.

Germany's "Blitzkrieg" (lightning war) was considered here at an end except for mopping up activities in Poland. The Poles, however, were still fighting in and south of the fortified town of Modlin, immediately north of Warsaw. Warsaw itself also has not capitulated to German arms.

Why Bombers So Far Use Restraint Against Cities

By DEWITT MACKENZIE - Associated Press Foreign Affairs Writer

How about this much debated question as to why neither the Anglo-French brotherhood nor the Germans have employed their widely advertised bombing planes against each other to any great extent?

One constantly hears expressions of surprise because the British and French in particular haven't used these devastating instruments of war against Germany, to bring quick support to their little Polish ally.

REASONS

That's a legitimate question, but the thing really isn't so easily disposed of. There are several reasons for the hesitation.

From the German standpoint the paramount reason for not raiding either England or France presumably has been Hitler's policy of refusing to assume the offensive against them.

Then there is another aspect. It is virtually impossible to carry out extensive raids against military objectives without endangering the lives of civilians.

It was only a few days ago, at the outbreak of war, that all countries agreed not to bomb civilians. This was in response to the appeal by President Roosevelt.

One hopes and believes that the humanitarian angle does restrain most combatants from bombing civilians. Having written this, I reach over and pick up a statement by Anthony J. Drexel Biddle Jr., American ambassador in Poland.

ACCUSATION

Biddle says the German air forces have been "taking advantage of every opportunity, without regard to the danger to the civilian population which may be involved."

That takes some explaining, but the German reply is that bombing of civilians was unavoidable because they were within the area of military advance.

There has, of course, been much debate over the question of how far an army should carry bombings against legitimate military objectives when civilians were endangered. We can't settle that argument here.

WORLD OPINION

However that may be, the bombing of civilians in territory where actual fighting wasn't in progress certainly would raise a mighty roar of protest from the world at large. The bombing of London or Paris or Berlin, for instance, assuredly would bring a throaty cry of "atrocities" from many quarters.

So no nation, even if it had the inclination to do such a thing, would care to risk the displeasure of the world. Anyway, nobody wants to be the first to invoke such wrath.

Again—British Foreign Secretary Lord Halifax last Wednesday in the House of Lords warned Germany in effect that if she resorted to civilian bombings the British government "must hold themselves completely free to take such action as they may deem appropriate."

Halifax was referring specifically to a German threat of reprisals if Polish civilians snipe Nazi soldiers. Halifax's declaration, however, would apply equally to the bombing of civilians anywhere.

REPRISALS

That brings us to the matter of reprisals in general. There is small doubt that, even if nations weren't restrained by moral influences, they still would hesitate to start wholesale bombings for fear of reprisals.

Just so sure as one of the warring capitals, or other cities, is bombed, there will be a quick answer—in kind. And once they start to forge this chain of horror there will be no end to it.

So who's going to be the first to start? Somebody will, some day soon. And then Old Nick himself will be loose.

AGREEMENT

Believe it or not, during the World War there was a sort of tacit understanding between the contending forces not to bomb each others military headquarters. That was because the strafing of a headquarters brought a reprisal just so sure as darkness came.

There didn't seem to be much sense in such an exchange. It didn't advance military operations a lot, and it was mighty unpleasant.

German Cards Ask
French Not to Fire

PARIS (AP)—French dispatches from the western front today said the Germans were distributing along the Rhine thousands of cards bearing crossed French and German flags and the words: "Frenchmen—do not fire and we will not fire."

It was presumed the cards were dropped from airplanes.

32,000 Canadians
To Be Made Ready For War Front

By C. R. BLACKBURN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA—Men, munitions and money will flow from Canada to aid the British government in the war against Germany, with the Dominion serving mainly as a reservoir of submarine fighters, munitions, materials, and possibly of larger war vessels, according to the government's new statement of policy.

Two divisions of volunteers will be organized at once to be available if and when the need arises to send an expeditionary force, and trained air personnel will be sent at once, says the announcement.

A statement to the press last night, the last official release from Hon. Ian Mackenzie in his capacity of defence minister, outlined the new details of policy. Less than an hour later Mr. Mackenzie was sworn in as Minister of Pensions and National Health, and was succeeded by former Labor Minister Rogers in the defence portfolio.

The statement outlined the following major proposals for co-operating with the British government:

1. Facilitating purchase of supplies in Canada by the United Kingdom government, probably involving in the first instance "repatriation" of Canadian securities held in London, and probably granting of credits.

2. Doubling of the naval personnel, increasing naval stores, improvement of naval facilities, and construction in Canada of "a large number of anti-submarine and mine-sweeping craft."

SPEED IN TRAINING

3. Immediate contribution of trained air personnel, involving intensified training in Canada to maintain a progressively increasing supply of pilots and airmen.

4. Organization of two complete divisions which will be available as an expeditionary force if required, these to be additional to the troops required for coast and fortress defence and guard duty.

From the 50,000 men now under arms in Canada it is proposed to ask for volunteers for the two divisions to form an expeditionary force available when needed.

Those volunteering will be retrained. Pending this organization further recruiting will be deferred. No details were given, but it was assumed the approximately 32,000 men required for the two divisions will be taken, if available, from those now in uniform, the remaining 18,000 being left for fortress and coast defence, and guarding vulnerable property.

See page 16 for text of Hon. Ian Mackenzie's announcement.

Hitler Speech Seen As Air Raid Threat

BERLIN (CP)—Adolf Hitler's war policy speech in annexed Danzig was taken today by some observers as an indication the Nazis might attempt to use the German air fleet for an attack on England in retaliation for Britain's naval blockade.

Indication that the German Fuehrer might use the blockade as a pretext for mass bombings came when he referred to the blockade as a "fight against women and children."

Then he said: "The time could rapidly come when he could apply a weapon against which we cannot be attacked."

Out of Hitler's long address yesterday other indications of Nazi policy were drawn:

1. Germany believes it can fight seven years.

2. Germany, and Soviet Russia, "the two greatest peoples and states," alone will decide the fate of Poland and establish peace and order in eastern Europe.

3. Germany regards the western boundary of the Reich as "final," and has no "war aims" against Britain or France.

A few hours after Hitler had recounted the progress of German troops in Poland, the army high command claimed new advances.

A communique said the battle near Kutno had ended with more than 105,000 prisoners taken and "enormous" losses to the enemy in dead and wounded. Hitler claimed 300,000 prisoners were captured.

The communique added:

"Along other fronts the enemy has practically given up resistance with the exception of a point northwest of Lwow, where fighting with strong scattered enemy forces still continues."

R.C.A.F. Plane Missing

OTTAWA (CP)—A Northrup Delta aircraft of the R.C.A.F. flown by Pilot Sergeant J. E. Doan and Leading Aircraftman D. A. Rennie has been missing since its departure for Quebec, September 14, en route to a Maritime province station, the defence department announced today. An aerial search is being conducted.

The two men were supplied with emergency rations and equipment necessary to sustain themselves if forced down in an isolated region.

On the day the plane left Meville there were reports of an airplane passing over Rimouski and Matapedia, in Quebec.

BUCHAREST (AP)—The Rumanian government announced today Marshal Edward Smigly-Rydz, chief of Poland's scattered military forces, would be interned in Rumania for the duration of the war, despite appeals from Great Britain and France.

'No Huge Profits
In This War'

Should the United States become involved in a second world war there will be no huge profits to big business as in 1918, delegates of the National Association of Petroleum Refiners were informed here by E. J. Gallmeyer, director of sales for the Wayne Pump Co., Fort Wayne, Ind. He predicted "not only men but means will be drafted in this country in case of war."

"It is a mistaken idea," he said, "that any of us can make money out of war. It is not the temper of the American people to let big business make a huge profit out of the venture while our boys are drafted at $30 a month."

Il Duce's Paper Makes Peace Appeal

ROME (AP)—Premier Mussolini's newspaper Il Popolo d'Italia today published an implied appeal to Britain and France to come to terms with Germany. It called the war in the west "useless."

"Italian sensibility, tempered by thousands of years, again points out the right road," the paper said, referring to earlier peace suggestions made in Rome.

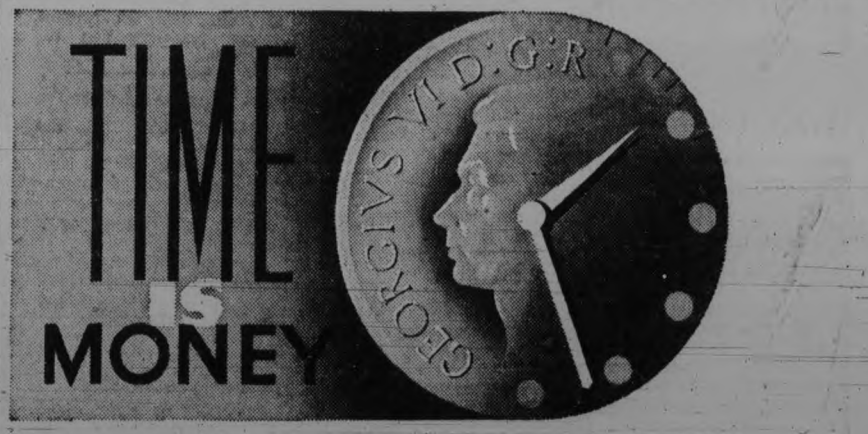

"The whole civilized world may once more see how correct were the vision and proposals of Rome," Il Popolo declared. "The war was as disastrous for Poland as it was tragically useless. Now that that prediction is fulfilled in the east the same world of good sense may be repeated for the west."

VANCOUVER (CP)—Air Commodore G. O. Johnson of the Western Air Command, R.C.A.F., today said Flight-Lieutenant J. C. Huggard had been appointed officer in charge of the R.C.A.F. recruiting centre in Winnipeg.

Japanese Advance In South China

SHANGHAI (AP)—Japanese officials claimed today their forces had entered Koaan in a renewed offensive in Kiangsi province, and the Chinese defenders were fleeing westward with Japanese troops in close pursuit.

Domei (Japanese official news agency) reported large Chinese forces were encircled north and south of Koaan. The Japanese were said to be "closing in, determined to annihilate the enemy."

City Council

Conscription Is Endorsed

On a five-to-four division the reduced City Council yesterday afternoon adopted Alderman W.
H. Davies' resolution calling on Canada to conscript manpower, wealth, machinery of production and resources for war purposes.

For the resolution, supported by Alderman Davies with a written statement of his views; were Aldermen D. D. McTavish, J. A.
Worthington, S. H. Okell and W.
L. Morgan, as well as the sponsor.
In the opposition were Mayor Andrew McGavin and Aldermen T. W. Hawkins, R. A.
C. Dewar and Ed. Williams.

Aldermen Archie Wills and B.
J. Gadsden did not attend the meeting, both being out of town.

The resolution, listing the proposed materials, personalities and services that should be conscripted, was advanced "to insure equality of personal assistance and sacrifice by all, and to prevent profiteering and other abuses of the public."

"I might say that I'm not very much interested in this. It won't do very much good. And the City Council has more important things to handle than this," Mayor McGavin commented after the resolution was read. Victoria, he noted, was a comparatively small city and the scope of the resolution, he thought, did not fall within the bounds of civic jurisdiction.

"I think the stand I took on this is a very courageous one," Alderman Davies stated, particularly, he added, in view of the possibility of him seeking re-election in December. The mothers of Victoria, he thought, would not support him on such a suggestion.

SAW PROFITEERING

"I was one of the few martyrs who stayed home last time. I saw conditions when our fellows were overseas and the slackers were making more money than they ever made in their lives before," he continued.

He had, he said, two sons and a daughter who might fall within the limits of conscription. At some length the alderman declared his opinion regarding the need for action. The procedure of policy of Drake in face of the approaching Spanish Armada had no place in present warfare, he added, before dealing in some detail with his views on the menace of Hitlerism to the democracies.

Alderman Dewar, while expressing agreement with some of Alderman Davies' points, felt the Canadian government was competent to deal with the issue.

"If they don't do what I think is the right thing, I know what I'll do when they come up for re-election," he added.

Alderman Okell declared if there ever was a time for clear thinking that time had come. It was the time for sacrifice. When a man enlisted, he offered his country his life. He thought conscription, as suggested, would equalize the opportunity for sacrifice.

Following the vote Alderman Hawkins asked the mayor what machinery the city had to prevent profiteering.

F. L. Shaw, city solicitor, to whom the question was referred, stated it was not a city or provincial matter, but one over which the federal government had jurisdiction.

City Council Briefs

A total of approximately $105, 000 has been turned into the city coffers by the lands department since the beginning of the year.

Alderman R. A. C. Dewar, lands committee chairman, informed the City Council yesterday as he secured approval for revision in terms of certain sales put through by the council last week.
His committee was supported in a move to accept $1,000 cash and $3,500 on terms from Ben Pruss for certain old premises on the city's reverted property lists, the change being necessitated by the war's effect on money markets.

Survey of a lot on Cormorant, between Government and Douglas, was ordered, one sale was cancelled and one demolition ordered.

Boulton Ltd. was given the contract for supplying the fire department with two truck tires.

The council accepted recommendations of the water board for pipe supplies.

Tenders from George Dodd for two demolitions were accepted.

The opinion that the city would

Cheap Walks Draw Protest

Dissatisfaction with the cheap oil and crushed rock sidewalks being constructed in the city was voiced by Mayor Andrew McGavin at yesterday afternoon's meeting of the City Council.

During his terms as alderman and mayor he had heard and discounted similar complaints, he stated, but recent personal experience had convinced him of the merits of such criticism, the chief magistrate added.

It was impossible, the mayor said, for anyone with nice carpets and floors to protect them if such sidewalks were adjacent to their homes. The materials were tramped into the house and caused damage. He thought Victoria should take a lesson from other municipalities, notably Oak Bay Costs of Oak Bay sidewalks, he admitted, were higher.

Alderman Ed. Williams, public works chairman, stated the whole question was one of costs. If the council wished to set a policy for the more expensive system, the public works committee would see it was carried out.

C. M. Irwin, city engineer, stated Oak Bay's sidewalks were far more expensive than the city type which drew complaint.

And Oak Bay taxed its citizens for such walks, Alderman J. A.
Worthington added.

Alderman R. A. C. Dewar agreed with the mayor the oil and crushed rock sidewalks were unsatisfactory, but suggested attention be given to the surfacing experiment conducted some years ago on a section of the Chambers Street walk.

On Alderman Williams' suggestion the matter was referred to the public works committee for a report on costs.

have to return to the court to have the price of water already supplied to Oak Bay fixed was expressed by F. L. Shaw, city solicitor. Mr. Shaw, summarizing the judgment handed down by the Court of Appeal last week on the water question, stated the city was obliged to supply water to Oak Bay and Oak Bay was obliged to accept and pay for it. There was not, however, any machinery under acts quoted during the case to set a lasting rate, he said.

By standing vote the council paid tribute to the memory of the late T. K. Scott, timekeeper in the engineer's department, after expressing appreciation of his services to the city, his high character and sympathy to the bereaved family. Later in the meeting the council authorized payment of a month and onehalf's salary to the dependents.

The council referred to the water board a letter from R. W.
Mayhew, M.P., stating federal authorities were not responsible for policing of public utilities, but adding they would provide arms to the city for such patrols.

The action of Mayor McGavin in protesting increased food prices, particularly in relation to butter, to Premier W. L. Mackenzie King was endorsed.

A suggestion from S. McLeary that meter rent be reduced by the B.C. Electric Railway Company
Ltd. was referred to the city franchise committee.

Alderman Davies' offer to try to organize sports for visiting soldiers and sailors was referred to the Civilian Protection Committee.

W. B. Wilson was granted a license to operate a second-hand store at 646 Cormorant Street.

A petition from T. E. Lancaster and five others protesting removal of trees on South Turner Street was referred to the parks committee for a report.

On the recommendation of the public works committee the council authorized purchase of 700 gallons of Bapco cement grey waterproof compound, with a five-year guarantee, at a cost of $1,750 from the B.A. Paint Company for waterproofing the grain elevator at Ogden Point. The tender of F.
Sparks for applying the material at a cost of $820 was also approved. The Island Sheet Metal Works was given the contract for roofing the market and fire department buildings at a cost of $180. Applicants were called for the position of draughtsman in the city engineer's office, to replace A. R. C. Morton. No park areas were set up at half a dozen locations. The proposal submitted by the city engineer for alleviating the nuisance allegedly caused by the New Mehod Laundry was referred to Frank Higgins, K.C., and the laundry manager. The council declined responsibility for a damage claim filed by Miss G. Evans and referred to the mayor, the city solicitor and the city engineer the advisability of taking any further action. Wrought iron gates at Ge. bally Road yard were sold to the Chemainus School Board at a price of $50, and September pay was approved. J. McIndoo.

City to Act On Light Rate Cut

The City Council will sit as committee of the whole tomorrow morning at 10 to discuss what action it should take on power and light rates in Victoria.

Decision to hold the committee session followed presentation of a motion at yesterday afternoon's meeting suggesting the city accept without prejudice the rate reductions offered by the B.C.

Electric, through W. G. Murrin, president; and then seek lower rates. Any acceptance would be contingent on satisfactory agreements between the city and the company on the Goldstream plant question and the city lighting contract.

"I think we're entitled to far more than the company has offered," Alderman W. L. Morgan, sponsor of the motion, said. The offer, however, covered a reduction, he added, urging the city to take it and try for further cuts.

Acceptance would be dependent on agreements satisfactory to the council on the Goldstream and city lighting contracts, details of which could be worked out, he stated.

Alderman T. W. Hawkins suggested the city send a committee to see the B.C. Electric on the issue before any action was taken.
Mayor Andrew McGavin advised delay for a short time.

Alderman J. A. Worthington proposed a meeting of the council in committee to give the matter further study. His suggestion was adopted.

Ministerial Changes

IF THERE IS ANY SPECIAL SIGNIFICANCE in Prime Minister Mackenzie King's cabinet readjustment which has occasioned the transfer of Hon. Ian Mackenzie from the portfolio of Defence to that of Pensions and National Health, and the installation in that vital department of the public service of Hon. Norman Rogers, it will be explained when, and if, the occasion demands. It is sufficient in the meantime to accept the suggestion that the British Columbia minister asked to be relieved of the task he has discharged since the government took office in 1935—because his exoneration and that of his department by the Davis Royal Commission has not stilled those voices which have continued to harp on the Bren gun inquiry and Mr. Mackenzie as Minister of Defence in particular.

Cabinet reorganizations in wartime, of course, are more often the rule than the exception. And the public of Canada will agree that Mr. King has by no means weakened his ministry by the changes he has made. Special interest naturally centres on Mr. Rogers, who not only has discharged his task as Minister of Labor with conspicuous success but who also takes up his new portfolio particularly well endowed to superintend the best type of service which it has been decreed—by close co-operation with the government in London—this Dominion shall render to the Empire's cause in the present struggle. Like his predecessor, Mr. Rogers is a young man—he is only 45—and knows what war is, for he served in the ranks of the C.E.F. in the last conflict.

Of more direct benefit to the ministry, however, will be the fund of special knowledge which Mr. Rogers is able to bring to bear on the important duties to which he has been assigned. He possesses an intimate understanding of working conditions in Canada and Labor's relations with industry in general. No sooner had he settled down in his ministerial seat than he developed a new approach to the problem of unemployment in the Dominion. He was the driving force behind the home improvement scheme which stimulated demand for labor in a basic productive Canadian industry. The youth training plan under his jurisdiction gave him a practical insight into the problem of young Canada; testimony to the excellent dividends this program has paid is found in the willingness with which Parliament has granted the funds for its expansion. In other words, Mr. Rogers understands the condition of the human and material resources from which he will be able to draw for any intensive program of industrial or military mobilization that may be required.

Nor should it be forgotten that Mr. Rogers has the confidence of labor and industry, his frequent association with prominent leaders in both spheres of influence furnishing him with important requisites for the tasks ahead of him. This in itself would seem to assure for Canada's war-department the fullest possible co-operation of the vital economic agencies upon which the nation relies to assist it in providing its contribution to the supreme effort Britain and France are exerting to stamp out Hitlerism.

Is Belgium Safe?

IF BRITAIN AND FRANCE CONTINUE their program and demonstrate to the world their implacable resolve to defeat Hitlerism—despite the Russo-German "entente"—it is to be expected that Nazi troops will invade Luxembourg and Belgium in order to try a flanking movement against the Maginot Line?

With the situation in Poland such as to permit the withdrawal of substantial reinforcements for the west, it is suggested that should British-French pressure now being applied in German territory become too serious a menace to a large part of the industrial Rhineland, necessity again will recognize no undertaking to neutral nations.

One military expert who admits that a repetition of the tactics employed by the Kaiser's armies in 1914 is well within the realms of possibility says the French probably hope for nothing better than an assault upon their Maginot Line. He adds: "To call those defences 'impregnable' would be an exaggeration, but the attacker who contrived to make a breach in them would find himself in the unpleasant situation of having to face the counter-offensive of a powerful, well-equipped and highly-trained mobile field army only awaiting such an opportunity."

Hitler Gets His Answer

PRIME MINISTER CHAMBERLAIN SAID in the British House of Commons today what it was expected he would say: Great Britain and France propose to follow the course they have charted for their respective countries. Nothing the Nazi chief shouted at Danzig yesterday impressed the statesmen of either nation beyond reminding both of them that until Hitlerism has been eliminated from the world the Anglo-French pledge to Poland will not be considered fulfilled. Mr. Chamberlain could not have put his country's position any clearer than when he used the following terms:

"I have only one general comment to make. Our general purpose in this struggle is well known. It is to redeem Europe from perpetual and recurring fear of German aggression and enable the peoples of Europe to preserve their independence and liberties."

We get an idea of the mental disturbance taking place in the mind of the Prime Minister when he departed from his carefully prepared speech to give extemporaneous expression to the following in connection with the text of Hitler's statements:

"What I have searched for in vain in his speech is one single word that Hitler remembers the brave men who have already lost their lives in this quarrel of his making, or their wives and children who have been bereft forever of the head of their family because of their Leader's lust for power to be satisfied."

Adolf Hitler did not go to Danzig to talk about the death and destruction which his "senseless ambitions" have caused. He went there to crow over the subjugation of his weaker neighbor, to laud the triumph which his troops had scored over the Polish people, to preen himself on the efficacy of the Nazi machine—and particularly that part of it which wrought such havoc among the women and children in open towns and villages. That is the Hitler mentality. This madman of Berlin cannot understand the feelings of a Chamberlain who finds himself obliged to ask his compatriots to help his country and her ally to stop this ghastly business—to make it impossible for it ever again to be repeated.

Hitler and his bloodthirsty gang know now, however, that the events of the last four days not only have not dismayed the British and French people, but have made them more determined than ever to go their way and fight for what they believe is right. Their cause must prevail just as certainly as there must follow its victory a new conception of human responsibility in the years to come.

What Turkey's Premier Said

SUGGESTIONS THAT THE RUSSO-GERMAN nonaggression pact and the Soviet's contemplated formal annexation of a large slice of Poland may dampen Turkey's ardor in her association with Great Britain and France—reports of the kind naturally enlarged upon by the German press—should be considered in conjunction with the terms of an address delivered by M. Saydam, Prime Minister of Turkey, when the Anglo-Turkish pact was negotiated last May. He said in part:

"You are well aware of the developments of political and military events which have taken place in Europe in recent times. Statesmen have made every possible effort that world peace should not be troubled by events likely to lead to bloodshed."

"The basis of Turkish policy has been, as far as possible, to keep clear of eventual calamitous events and maintain a neutral and pacific position. But events having penetrated the Balkan Peninsula and having menaced the security of the Mediterranean, Turkey could not remain indifferent and neutral."

"This is why we have resolved, together with other powers having interests in the Mediterranean, that this sea must be considered as common property. It is a question of security and a necessity to prevent the possibility of the establishment of a hegemony in the Mediterranean."

Turkey has realized the need to collaborate with all states united with a view to safeguarding peace. I ask the authorization of the Grand National Assembly for Turkey to march side by side with Britain."

Post-war Turkey has not progressed to the position she now holds among the nations of the world on policies of deceit or blatant opportunism; she has acquired a new outlook, even though she acquired it under the benevolent and understanding dictatorship of the late Kemal Attaturk, which she is scarcely likely to change without good cause. M. Saydam's case for his country is stated unequivocally in that part of his address we have quoted.

How Canada Voted for War

From Toronto Saturday Night

"Mr. King, we have said, knew that a decision to abstain from the war would have torn Canada to pieces. But he also knew that a decision to enter it would put a considerable strain upon the national unity; and no man, not even Sir Wilfrid Laurier, could have been more solicitous than he to insure that the strain should be as slight as possible. In this he was ably and devotedly seconded by the Rt. Hon. Ernest Lapointe, who has risked his political life in the effort to keep his fellow French-Canadians from succumbing to the lure of the isolationists, separatists, Laurentianists and the rest who can see no future for French Canada in a Dominion stretching from sea to sea."

When Mr. King and Mr. Lapointe told the members of the House of Commons that they were perfectly free to vote against the declaration of war, but that if a majority of them did so they must seek another government to carry on the nation's business, they were compelling the French representatives to face the realities of the situation as no other method could have done, with the result that only three Quebec members spoke, and only two voted, against the declaration.

It is simply impossible to exaggerate the importance of this achievement; and if the spirit of Sir Wilfrid Laurier was haunting Parliament Hill it must have felt that there was indeed a proof that the example which he set and the injunctions which he gave for preserving the unity of his beloved Canada have been fully justified.

A word must be said also for the admirable language and conduct of Dr. Manion. Nothing that he has done since he took the leadership of the Opposition has given more ground for hoping that he is of the stuff from which the men are made who really count in our political life.

Loose Ends

IF YOUR LITTLE BOY has a globe map of the world you had better steal it, when he isn't looking, and examine the eastern and western rims of the Pacific Ocean. Then read the latest news from Europe and superimpose it, in your mind's eye, upon the map. It will provide you with an evening's interesting thought.

Russia is on the make. It has made its deal with Germany and taken its cut in Poland. It is patching up a deal with Japan. More important to us, the whole policy of Russia moves eastward, in the development of Siberia. It is becoming, with its Pacific ports and coastline, a great Pacific power.

The globe map will surprise most people who are accustomed to the distorted projection of the flat map. You will see that the tip of Alaska is right out west of us in Victoria, lying between us and Japan and Russia. Alaska is almost in sight of the Russians and Japanese, who are busy these days making their deals and looking years, perhaps centuries, ahead.

The United States has been looking at the map of the Pacific a long time and has prepared for anything that may happen there by fortifying Alaska, by drawing a line of naval defence from Dutch Harbor to Honolulu to the Panama Canal.

That is where Canada comes in. We lie fortunately behind this invisible line which can be maintained by the United States navy. We feel pretty safe, with the American navy on the Pacific and the British navy on the Atlantic. So, up to now, we have let things slide.

NOT ENOUGH

LONG AGO CANADA should have had a military treaty with the United States, should have understood exactly what the United States would do if this country were attacked, either by invasion or by raid. Today we have no such understanding, only the vague assurances of the Monroe Doctrine and a speech by President Roosevelt.

These are not enough. For one thing they refer only to an attempt to occupy Canada and establish a foreign power's control here. They certainly do not cover raids on our ports and our shipping. If German submarines sink ships in our Atlantic ports, it is no business of the United States. If airplanes bomb any city in Canada, the Monroe Doctrine does not apply. If our Pacific coast is ever raided, our Pacific shipping sunk, the United States is not obligated to do anything about it.

No Canadian government has dared to talk about an alliance with the United States. The United States, for its part, has felt no need for an alliance for its own protection and, anyway, has known that a suggestion of an alliance would be misinterpreted here.

I talked about this in Washington last spring to some men high in the government of the United States. Any proposal for an alliance, said Senator Key Pittman, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, must come from Canada. If the United States proposed it a lot of Canadians would think the United States wanted quietly to get control of Canada, which is the very last thing it wants to do, having too many economic problems of its own.

The importance of Canada to the defence of the United States is so great that, if Canada were to propose a treaty, the United States would certainly be interested. Even the isolationists cannot isolate themselves from Canada, for Canada is the United States' northern frontier against any foreign enemy, particularly on the Pacific.

Canada does nothing about an alliance because all our governments have feared their own electors. Too many Canadians, in the past, have entertained the quaint idea that an alliance with the United States somehow would be disloyal to Britain. It might as well be argued that an alliance between Britain and France is disloyal to Canada.

ONLY IN EUROPE

THE FEAR of the Canadian politicians about any "foreign commitments" is quite comical. For a year the Canadian government was secretly exchanging military information with the American government and our fortifications on the Straits of Juan de Fuca were built to complement the American forts on the other side. But when this newspaper revealed this exchange of information last spring it produced a gasp of horror in Ottawa. The politicians were terrified of what the Canadian people would say. The Canadian people said it was a good idea and the politicians sank back with a long sigh of relief. The Canadian people have more sense than the politicians sometimes give them credit for.

Still, there were no foreign commitments. Premier King made that very clear when he was asked in the House of Commons about this newspaper's story on the defence situation. No, we have no commitment to fight if the United States is attacked. If our own first line of defence is attacked. But we had a commitment to fight for Poland and are fighting now, though Poland could never help to defend us. We will agree to fight anywhere in Europe where the interests of our Empire demand it. We will not agree in advance to fight in America for our neighbor.

It is my opinion that the politicians have underestimated the Canadian intelligence. I believe the Canadian people would welcome a military alliance of mutual assistance with the United States, and if they have any sense they will wonder why the alliance was not made long ago. It would be a mighty comfortable thing to sleep on tonight.

Britain Wins Back The Mediterranean

By ALBERT VITON

In the Nation

A NEW SPIRIT of resolution now reigns in the Middle East, says the unofficial organ of the British Colonial Office; and judged by all recent developments in the Mediterranean, the Ethiopian-Munich era is over. In this area at least Britain is acting as if it meant business. Confidential information from various Mediterranean capitals shows that statesmen and publicists are convinced that the occupation of Albania will turn out to be even more costly to Mussolini than the occupation of Czechoslovakia has been to his opposite number in Germany.

During the Ethiopian crisis in 1935 the British fleet scuttled out of Malta without waiting to count 10. Had war broken out, it would likewise have had to abandon Alexandria, where it had taken shelter. All Egyptian bases, including the Suez Canal, were then undefended; Italian submarines and bombers would have met very little resistance. Indeed, British naval officers made no secret of their intention to clear out of the Mediterranean in case of hostilities and take up a position west of Gibraltar. Hasty efforts were made to develop the African route to the Far East. Even during the crisis in 1938, the British fleet hastily abandoned all positions east of Alexandria. But all this is now ancient history. Although aided by Germany to a greater extent than ever, Italy has been steadily losing ground, while Britain and, to a lesser extent, France have regained old positions.

ITALY'S PLAN

Until recently Italian strategy was calculated on the basis of swift, decisive strokes delivered at disjointed points in a Blitzkrieg. For a purpose, close to half a million men have been kept permanently under arms in various Mediterranean and African posts outside of Italy, ready for instant action; 120,000 Italian soldiers have been stationed in Libya, 150,000 in Africa, 40,000 in Albania, 80,000 in Rhodes and the Dodecanese. Last but not least, according to Giustizia e Libertà, there are about 100,000 Italian soldiers still in Spain. The intention was to hurl the Libyan forces, undoubtedly the best equipped, against Tunis, while the African troops, aided by aircraft and submarines, would stage a rapid descent into the Sudan and Egypt. The French garrison at Djibuti, would be in no position to offer any resistance, and the Suez Canal practically demilitarized, would hardly be a serious obstacle. At the same time, rebellions in the Arab countries, which had been carefully prepared by Axis propaganda, would engage the isolated British garrisons. Naval and air forces from the mainland and from the various fortified islands would be more than sufficient to deal with British and French shipping.

The first blow to this ambitious plan was delivered by German experts who went down to Libya early this year. The Germans saw that Italy would be in no position to attack Tunis and Egypt simultaneously. Marshal Badoglio, too, opposed Mussolini's optimistic plan. In a secret memorandum, the contents of which have since been published in France, Badoglio insisted that no less than 250,000 soldiers would be necessary for an assault on Tunis; and those troops would have to be far better equipped than is the present Libyan army. A new plan was consequently evolved which provided for a rapid pincer attack on Egypt from Libya and Ethiopia, while the air force, stiffened by German machines and personnel, would engage British forces around Suez. As to Tunis, the best Italy hopes to accomplish is to hold back a French attack until the main army is relieved after taking control of Egypt.

BRITISH BUILD UP

But even this limited plan is no longer as foolproof as it appeared when first evolved. The last four months have witnessed profound changes in the balance of forces in this part of the world. From Gibraltar to Istanbul and from Greece to the Indian Ocean the British have been repairing Empire fences at breakneck speed. Nothing is being overlooked. Large dumps of military supplies have been established in all strategic centres; food for civil populations is being stored under the direction of experts from London; aircraft precautions have undergone a complete reorganization. Blackouts have been held in Near Eastern cities which had considered themselves as safe as the desert. The distribution of gas masks to the civil population has been taken in hand. Above all, local forces are being raised everywhere to cope with sudden attacks. The number of British battalions overseas, excluding those in India and Burma, has been increased to 28; the Middle East Command of the Royal Air Force, already counting nine squadrons, is being rapidly augmented, and impressive changes have been made in the commanding personnel.

SOME INCREASES

I can do no more than indicate the military measures which have been pushed through during the last few months. The Governor of Malta, General Sir Charles Bonham-Carter, revealed in a speech on Empire Day that the garrison has been increased from two regiments of artillery to five, and there will soon be a sixth. There used to be two battalions of infantry; now there are four, and they are always at war strength. "The coast defences," the Governor continued, "are steadily increasing in power. The strength of the air defences has been more than doubled since last September."

Coming over to the mainland, Britain now has 20,000 troops in Palestine; in addition, there are close to 10,000 armed Jews who have been receiving training during the last three years. No doubt they will constitute an invaluable adjunct to the British army, especially if there should be a change in England's Palestine policy. The British also count on the 30,000 to 50,000 fully trained young Jews who are outside the official defence forces, and they are now trying to win over the Arabs. Even little Trans-Jordan is doing its bit for the imperial defence. New rifles have been sent, along with machine guns and even artillery. London has approved the forming of a War Department for Trans-Jordan, and the Arab Legion, created and commanded by Englishmen, has launched a widespread mobilization campaign.

TURN AROUND RED SEA

Journalists—or even travelers, for that matter—are not very welcome along the shores of the Red Sea or in Aden; but the few reports that come out of those forsaken areas bear evidence of tremendous military activity. The importance of the Red Sea to Italy need hardly be emphasized. Until a few months ago the Italians thought they had Yemen in their pocket; but of late Saif Islam, the Yemen Crown Prince, has spent much time in London and Paris, where he apparently carried on important negotiations. The garrison at Aden was strengthened at the end of April, and new barracks are being built with the greatest speed. Even subterranean shelters for the civil population are being constructed. New equipment has been sent to Ibn Saud, the Wahabi war lord of Arabia, who is rapidly increasing his standing army. Of the greatest importance is the new network of roads which are now being pushed forward to criss-cross the Near East, since mobility is a supreme factor for the highly-mechanized units of the British army.

LINKS STRENGTHENED

In Egypt gigantic efforts are being made to build a war machine in record time. The infantry has grown from 12,000 to 29,000 during the last four months; a motorized division of 6,500 men has been formed; the air force has been strengthened by about 200 new planes; and huge quantities of armaments have been purchased in England. Lawrence's guerrilla experience during the World War has prompted the government to start forming Bedouin battalions to harass the invading army from Libya, and Britain has completed arrangements with the Egyptians for quartering Indian troops. But these forces are certainly inadequate to protect the long borders against a double attack. Britain is now paying for her policy of refusing to allow the Egyptians a trained army during the last 50 years. The native officers are admittedly bad and the army is inexperienced. It would take five years to execute the plan drawn up about two months ago to build 23 ships costing $40,000,000 and to raise the army to 120,000 men.

But the entrance of Turkey and the potential entrance of Greece, on the side of the democracies has introduced changes which the Axis did not foresee. It is possible that Turkey with her trained army of 1,500,000 will be given the task of defending the Syro-Palestinian coast and the Suez Canal. Important staff conversations have been held in London and Ankara, and it seems that arrangements have been completed for dispatching 100,000 soldiers to Egypt. The excellently-equipped British and Indian forces would thus be released for meeting the Italian forces from Ethiopia. And access to the innumerable Grecian and Turkish ports will mean that the British fleet will no longer have to scuttle out of the Eastern Mediterranean. The Italian naval expert Floravanza wrote in 1937 in "World Naval Bases": "... any grouping of powers which gave Britain and France the use of the Grecian bases would mean the complete strangulation of Italy." It is more than doubtful whether Albania is a sufficient compensation for the loss of Greece.

TO KISS OR NOT TO KISS

From Philadelphia Public Ledger

At the beginning of his fame, brought on by a biological accident in Callander, Ontario, Dr. Allar Roy Dafee was hailed as an inspiring example of the old-fashioned physician. Now, we fear, he has gone high-hat. Alarming evidence is the fact that he wants a law forbidding uncles, aunts and grandparents from kissing babies.

The bugaboo, of course, is the possibility of baby catching something. It isn't fair, says Dr. Dafee, to expose a small baby to the horrible ailments of adult existence, so down with kissing. There should be some doctor with courage to dispute the evil consequences of kissing. But it is difficult to talk back to Dr. Dafee. He has raised the incredible quintuplets in a prophylactic environment and they do him credit. But their many brothers and sisters have also muddled through somehow. So have millions of babies who were kissed often and emphatically when too young to know what it was all about.

There is some suspicion, even among scientists, that babies need of specially printed bags, attaching tags and filling trays for the girls who will be selling them to the Victoria public on a weedy this

Pioneer Families United at Home Wedding

Miss Myfanwy Spencer Bride Today of
Mr. Donald Campbell

Two well-known pioneer families were united by the quiet wedding solemnized at the home of the bride's parents, "Haely Bryn," Joan Crescent, this afternoon at 1.30, when Myfanwy, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Williams Spencer, became the bride of Mr. James Duncan Donald Campbell, only son of Mrs. D. E. Campbell, Linden Avenue, and the late Duncan E. Campbell.

Rev. A. E. Whitehouse performed the ceremony, and during the simple service Mrs. G. G. McGee of Vancouver, aunt of the bride, sang the Lord's Prayer, accompanied by Mr. Edward Parsons.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in her gown of palest gold lame, made on fitted lines and buttoned at the back, with a train and long, tight-fitting sleeves. Her veil of eggshell illusion net fell from a coronet of the lame, and she carried a bouquet in pale gold tones.

Mrs. Pierre Dumaine, cousin of the bride, was matron of honor, and Miss Mary Campbell, sister of the bridegroom, Miss Josephine Rither and Miss Terese Todd were bridesmaids, all wearing gowns of redwood velvet molded to the figure, with the new black fullness, and long, tight sleeves. They wore hats composed of a gold mesh snood, with a front cluster of ostrich tips in redwood and lichen green, tied with redwood velvet ribbons, and carried sheaves of chrysanthemums.

The three little flower-girls, Miss Anne (Bubbins) Spencer, daughter of Col. and Mrs. Victor Spencer, Vancouver, and the Misses Elizabeth and Margaret Molson, daughters of Capt. and Mrs. Hobart Molson, wore frocks of lichen green satin, with tight bodices, full skirts and short puff sleeves, worn with tiny heart-shaped hats of the green satin adorned with tiny ostrich tips in the two tones, and redwood velvet streamers.

Mr. W. H. M. Haldane was groomsmen, and Messrs. George D. Tyson, J. Brydon, Harold Wilson, George Phillips, Philip Sills and William Munro were ushers.

Mrs. Spencer, mother of the bride, wore a graceful gown of brown silk velvet with a gold lame top and velvet coat, with a brown felt hat, and Mrs. Campbell, mother of the bridegroom, was becomingly gowned in periwinkle blue sheer, with matching lace top, and a brief, fitted coat of the sheer, and a periwinkle blue hat, with a matching ostrich plume curling over the upturned brim.

After their honeymoon, for which the bride left in a smart suit of brown woolen, with matching turban, and a short coat of brown fox, Mr. and Mrs. Campbell will make their home in Victoria.

Among the many beautiful gifts was a handsome silver tea tray, from "the managers and old-time members" of the staff of David Spencer Limited, Victoria.

Attorney Graham K. Betts told the court the couple came here to be married, ignorant of the new statute requiring a three-day wait between application and issuance of a marriage permit.

CURRENT EVENTS CLUB

A meeting of the Gordon Head Current Events Club was held in the hall on Monday when Mrs. Nellie McClung spoke on present European situation, mentioning that it was exactly 8 years ago September 18, 1931, that the first act of aggression took place when Japan made the first move into Manchukuo. General discussion took place with regard to forming a Red Cross unit, it was decided to co-operate with a society in Victoria. J. S. Twining, manager of the Gordon Head Cannery, kindly offered the use of the cannery with its facilities as a workroom. A committee was chosen and it was arranged to call a public meeting at an early date inviting all residents of the Gordon Head district who would be interested and willing to help in this worthy cause.

Fairfield United Church W.M.S. will hold a "Rally" lunch in the schoolroom tomorrow at 1. Mrs. Black from Mancharia will be the speaker.

This photo, transmitted by cable from London, shows the Duchess of Kent making surgical splints at her country home in Buckinghamshire now turned into the Ivor Cottage Hospital, as all England bends every effort in the war with Germany.

Weddings

SCOTNEY-NIVEN

A quiet wedding was solemnized by Rev. J. L. W. McLean at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church on Saturday afternoon, September 16, between Rachel, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. J. Mackie Niven and Walter Bramwell Scotney, son of the late Reginald Norman Scotney of Elk-horn, Manitoba, and Mrs. Scotney of Vancouver.

LAWSON-NELSON

A quiet wedding was solemnized on Saturday evening, September 16, at the home of the bride, 722 Kings' Road, Rev. E. Bracher of Grace Lutheran Church officiating, when Lillian C., elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Nelson, became the bride of Mr. Charles H. Lawson, only son of Mr. C. A. Lawson, Regina Avenue, Saanich.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and was attended by her sister, Miss Alfreda Nelson. The groom was supported by Mr. Howard Winterburn.

BAXTER-NICHOLSON

White gladioli, asters and pink and mauve chrysanthemums were used as a background for the pretty wedding solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Garvie, Vancouver, last Saturday evening at 8 for the marriage of their niece, Miss Elizabeth Russell Nicholson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Nicholson, 501 Niagara Street, Victoria, to John Bruce Baxter, of Comox Street, Vancouver, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Baxter, 113 Topaz Avenue, Victoria.

Rev. George Pringle performed the ceremony in the presence of relatives and intimate friends of the young couple. The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a black tailored costume of sheer wool trimmed with grey fur, and accessories to match, with a corsage bouquet of white gladioli and rosebuds.

A reception was held after the wedding, the bride's mother receiving in a gown of blue marquisette, with a corsage of pink carnations, assisted by the mother of the groom, who wore a tan costume with a corsage bouquet of carnations. Mrs. J. Garvie was gowned in black lace, with a corsage bouquet of gladioli and carnations, and the bride's sister wore blue sheer, with gardenias.

Refreshments were served from a table covered with a lace cloth and centred with white sweet peas and carnations, and green tapers in cut glass candlesticks. The wedding cake stood on the bride's table which was covered with a lace cloth and adorned with double tapers.

After a short honeymoon, Mr. and Mrs. Baxter will reside in Vancouver.

EDWARDS-RELF

The marriage of Jessie Chambers, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Relf, 1022 Southgate Street, and Mr. Reginald Byron Edwards, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Edwards, 2714 Cedar Hill Road, was quietly solemnized in Christ Church Cathedral last evening at 8.30 o'clock, Rev. E. W. Slater, of the Northern British Columbia Coast Mission, officiating. Pink gladioli and goldenrod decorated the chancel. Mr. Stanley Bulley, cathedral organist, played the wedding music.

Mr. Relf gave his daughter in marriage. She wore a princess gown of pink with lace top and very full skirt of net, and her waist-length veil was worn with orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of Rapture roses, white carnations and white heather. Mrs. Vera Edwards, sister of the bridegroom, was bridesmaid in a frock of rose chiffon, with shirred jacket, and a cap of matching tulle with a cluster of pink flowers on the top and smaller ones on each side. She carried a bouquet of pink carnations and maidenhair fern. Mr. Joe Travis was best man, and Mr. Jack Relf and Mr. Chester Wilson were ushers.

Following the service a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. A three-tier cake centred the lace-covered supper table between tall tapers and vases of pink and white carnations and trailing asparagus fern. Mrs. Relf was dressed in a bolero frock of black and white pebble crepe with matching accessories, and receiving with her was the bridegroom's mother, in a blue redingote frock, a blue hat and white accessories. They both wore shoulder bouquets of white carnations.

After a motor trip, Mr. and Mrs. Edwards will make their home at 3064 Highway Drive. The bride left in a smart black outfit with a seal coat. Rev. and Mrs. E. W. Slater, Prince Rupert, and Mrs. G. Thrift, White Rock, B.C., were guests at the wedding.

MOORE-PARTINGTON

On Monday evening at St. Barnabas Church Rev. Canon H. E. Smith solemnized the marriage of Florence Amy, younger daughter of Mrs. E. Birt and the late Mr. James B. Partington and Mr. John Fritz William Moore, P.P.C.L.I., second son of Lieutenant-Colonel and Mrs. F. W. L. Moore.

Mr. E. Birt gave away the bride, who wore an embroidered afternoon frock of Malaga grape crepe with matching accessories and carried a bouquet of roses. She was attended by her sister, Miss Margaret Partington, in a fuchsia and teal blue ensemble with a corsage bouquet of carnations.

Mr. Victor Moore supported his brother and Mrs. F. W. L. Moore played the wedding music.

After the service Mr. and Mrs. Birt entertained the wedding party in Spencer's private dining room.

Mr. and Mrs. Moore have taken up residence in the Broadway Apartments, Superior Street.

CUMING-FORSYTH

The marriage was quietly solemnized recently at St. John's Church of Elizabeth (Betty) Victoria, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Forsyth, 843 Fort Street, and Mr. Ronald H. S. Cuming, younger son of Mr. Cecil Cuming and the late Mrs. Cuming. Rev. G. R. V. Bolster officiated.

The dainty bride entered the church on the arm of her father, and was attractively attired in a Marine blue sweetheart model frock with accessories of mid-night blue. Her turban-styled hat was softened with a shoulder-length veil of figured net and rosebuds and maidenhair fern composed her corsage bouquet.

Miss Helen Forsyth attended her sister, and chose a sapphire blue ensemble of silk fabric fashioned with a bustle back. White accessories and a corsage of pink carnations completed her toilet. The groom was supported by Mr. Norman Land.

A small reception of immediate relatives was held, following the ceremony, at the home of the bride's parents. Mrs. Forsyth received, gowned in a simple model of Burgundy sheer with lace relief, and wearing a model hat of rough navy straw and a corsage of pink carnations. Mrs. J. Stewart was at the urns, assisted by Miss Lenora Trickett, supper being served from a prettily appointed table, centred with a two-tier wedding cake. Mr. Land proposed the traditional toast to the bride. Pink carnations were used throughout the reception rooms.

For traveling the bride donned a princess model fabric metal grey coat with fox collar. After a honeymoon spent up-island the young couple will take up residence in Victoria. Mr. John Forsyth Jr., of Nanaimo, brother of the bride, was a guest at the wedding.

Plan to Register Women of Island

Mrs. Alan Morkill
In Charge of Organization Work

Preliminary steps towards the obtaining of a survey of the 150,000 women of Vancouver Island in preparation for any emergency was taken with the appointment yesterday of Mrs. Alan Morkill as provincial vice-president of the Voluntary Registration of Canadian Women.

Mrs. Morkill will be in charge of organization for the island, assisted by a committee including Dr. Olga Jardine, Miss Sara Spencer, Mrs. H. S. Hurn, Mrs. J. L. White and Mrs. Norman Kennedy. Mrs. Morkill expects to leave for a 10-day trip through the island for the purpose of stimulating interest in the various districts and appointing local committees to take over the organization of registration in these districts.

The island committee will work in co-operation with the provincial committee, of which Mrs. F. J. Roiston, Vancouver, is chairman, and a Victoria local committee has been formed under the chairmanship of Dr. Olga Jardine.

The present plan for the registration in Victoria is to concentrate the work into a one-week period, October 16 to 23. Between these dates women will be given an opportunity to register at specified places in the city, due publicity of which will be given.

Registration places the registrant under no obligation whatever. The survey is being made merely with the idea of estimating the available woman-power of the country for emergency service, and Miss Margaret Hyndman, K.C., of Toronto is heading the national organization.

The women's union of the First Baptist Church will meet in the church parlor tomorrow. Luncheon will be served at 1 o'clock, followed by the regular meeting at which the topic will be "India's Rural Millions."

EXTERNALLY CAUSED FACIAL BLEMISHES GONE

...Writes Mrs. Peter Coleman: "For two years I suffered with externally caused pimples on my face. They were large, hard and red. I tried many things, without success—until I used Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment. In a couple of weeks there was a real improvement. Soon, all the blemishes were gone."

Writes Mrs. Stephen Farrell: "Due to some external cause, large pimples came out on my face and back. I used lotions and salves, but with very little help. Then I read about Cuticura Soap and Ointment, and began to use them. Relief came quickly, and in two months my skin was smooth and clear."

Writes Miss Rachel Reichert: "I had a bad case of externally caused pimples. For a year I tried all kinds of remedies, but none worked. Finally I began using Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment—and after about a month and a half my face was very much relieved. Help make your complexion dreams come true. Human Values Cast Aside in War-torn Europe

Says Gladys Arnold
Of Paris in Talk
To Clubwomen

"The force behind the tragedy of war-torn Europe today is not a philosophical problem of conflicting ideologies but a very old force which in the Middle Ages was called barbarism. The very negation of humanity, this sinister force is eating at the foundations of the human values on which our own civilization rests."

Miss Gladys Arnold, Canadian journalist who has just returned from four years in Continental Europe, sounded this warning note in her interesting address before the Women's Canadian Club yesterday afternoon.

Under the title, "Submerging Humanity in Europe," she vividly described the devastating effects on the spiritual and human values by the events of the last few years in France, Germany and Italy. "There is more real peace in Canada today, when it is at war, than there was in Europe four years ago, when it was supposedly at peace," she declared.

HAUNTING INSECURITY

From week to week haunted by the thought that Hitler was planning to wage war without warning, the people of France had for years been imbued with the feeling of instability and insecurity, the inability to plan for the future. In Paris she found that "you cut all your plans and desires to a 24-hour deadline, and lived just from day to day, not knowing what nightmare the next might bring forth."

But in Germany it was different. In her travels there she found a spirit of preparation and exaltation. All of whom she met said they wanted peace, but at the same time wanted a larger and expanding Germany; the young people believed that they could bring all outside Germans into the Reich without resorting to war.

SINISTER PICTURE

Admittedly the youth of Germany presented a handsome but sinister picture in their regimented activities, but the terrible sameness of them all, their lack of individuality, presented a tragic picture of a youth which derives its force and purpose from a machine and in place of ideals substitutes idolatry for a leader, she observed.

Italy's youth she found more realistic, and they did not look upon Mussolini as a god, yet there she had visited a summer taught the military code, wireless, the use of guns. Defection in attending a political meeting was punished by a night in jail.

CULTURE AT STANDSTILL

Under such conditions, all art and culture had come to a standstill in Europe. Armaments were absorbing the nations' wealth. Scholarships and research were suffering. Human values were being thrown overboard. Humanity was being broken up, soldiers become automatons, and civilians mere cogs in the machine.

Canada today was at war. But never was war entered into with less hate, less illusion and less enthusiasm. Canada entered the war to fight for the preservation of the inalienable right of every human being to plan for the future, to enjoy family life and all those human and spiritual values on which civilization rests, she concluded.

Mrs. James Adam, the new president of the club, presided for the first time at yesterday's meeting. Mrs. W. H. Wilson expressed the members' thanks to the speaker.

CIVIL PROTECTION

Dr. G. F. Davidson gave a brief outline of the work of the provincial committee for the protection of the civilian population, and reminding the women that pending the organization of required services, they could help their country best by "carrying on" and going about their usual business in such a way that they would be ready when the time came to give their help.

Miss Patsy Swift, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Pierre Timp, sang very charmingly three solos, "We Two Together," "O Lovely Night" and "Silent Moon."

CENTENNIAL Y.P.S.

The Centennial Young Peoples' Society met Tuesday evening with the president in the chair and 27 present. The devotional period was arranged by Winnie Kerley and Maude Land taking part. The speakers were Misses Ruth and Mary Peat, who gave a very interesting talk on their trip to England and Scotland. Next week the society will hold a social at the home of the vice-president, Orval Bennett, 160 Gorge Road.

Social and Personal

Miss Pearl Findlay was the guest of honor at a miscellaneous shower held at the home of Miss Doris Townsend, Craigflower Road. On her arrival the bride-to-be was presented with a corsage bouquet of pink and white carnations and a basket prettily decorated with mauve and pink crepe paper, which contained the many gifts. Games were enjoyed during the evening, the winners being Irene Lindlay and Mrs. E. Carter. Supper was served buffet style from a table centred with mauve and pink sweet peas. The guests were Mesdames F. Findlay, G. A. Hedden, R. Chatfield, L. Cox, J. Hedley, E. Carter, B. Viggers, F. Mayo, G. Haikala, G. Townsend, Misses Jean Morley, Yvonne Prince, Agnes Johnson, Abbee Townsend, Iona Findlay, Marion Cann, Irene Lindlay, Ruth McAnerin, Yvonne Warren and Pat Sharpe.

Former Victorian Mauled By Grizzly

BANFF (CP)—Attached by an enraged female grizzly bear with a cub, two persons were injured seriously yesterday as they tramped along the Great Divide, 50 miles northwest of here.

Nicholas Morant, Canadian Pacific Railway press photographer from Montreal, was found by a search party after Christian Haasler, son of a Lake Louise guide, had stumbled five miles to Wapta Lake bungalow near Hector, B.C.

Haasler's legs and one arm were torn by the grizzly which had a cub. Early reports reaching here said Morant was "badly mauled" but extent of his injuries was not known immediately.

Mr. Morant has been with the company more than five years. He joined the press bureau as an office boy at Winnipeg, but soon branched out into the photographic field and is ranked "among the best photographers in the country," according to officials. About 30 years of age, Morant comes from Kamloops. He attended the University School at Victoria.

Try this EFFECTIVE way to get your Extra Vitamins

Now—new High-Vitamin Yeast gives a richer combination of 4 essential vitamins, plus the "Booster Action" of fresh yeast

Rich man, poor man, white-collar worker—studies indicate many in all walks of life need extra vitamins, more than they are getting from their everyday meals.

Even if you think your vitamin supply is good—slow digestion may keep you, like so many others, from taking up all the vitamins you should.

GREAT NUMBERS of people live on diets which do not supply enough vitamins for glowing health, many studies indicate.

You—like so many others—may have slow digestion with poor secretion of digestive juices. If this is not stimulated you may fail to get full use of the vitamins you eat.

Be sure you get enough vitamins. Also be sure you get full good from the vitamins you do eat.

Eat your extra vitamins this effective way—in Fleischmann's new High-Vitamin Yeast. The remarkable "booster action" of fresh yeast, by stimulating slow digestion, can help you take up the vitamins you eat more fully—give more complete results than vitamins alone.

Eat 2 cakes a day to get all the average person needs of extra Vitamins A, B, D, and a rich supply of the Vitality Vitamin G.

THREE QUESTIONS MANY PEOPLE ASK:

1 "How can I tell whether I need extra vitamins?"

If you catch severe colds that "hang on," you very likely need more Vitamin A.

If you feel nervous, irritable and have poor digestion, B is often needed.

Plenty of Vitamin D is essential for the proper use of the calcium and phosphorus in your diet, which are necessary for strong bones and hard teeth.

Tiring easily, too early aging may be due to a shortage of Vitamin G.

2 "Do people ever eat extra vitamins and not feel improved?"

Yes. Slow digestion may cut down your assimilation of vitamins so you don't get the full good you should from them.

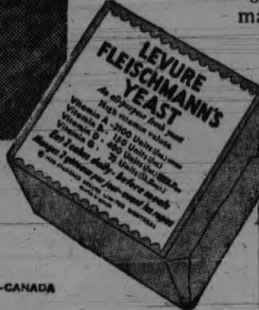

3 "Can poor vitamin assimilation be helped?"

Slow digestion can often be stimulated by eating Fleischmann's new High-Vitamin Yeast. This better digestion helps the body make fuller use of the vitamins. It "boosts" their assimilation.

2 cakes of Fleischmann's new HIGH-VITAMIN Yeast eaten daily will give you . . .

Hear Protest Against Track

The Zoning Appeal Board of Saanich yesterday afternoon heard a petition of protest filed against the construction of an automobile race track on the McRae property, between Derby Road and Queensbury Avenue.

The board, under the chairmanship of H. C. Oldfield, deferred decision on the appeal until it has had an opportunity to view the site.

The application for the construction of the track was made to the council by A. D. Frumento and the permit was granted after considerable debate on a split vote of the council. About 20 ratepayers appeared yesterday to oppose the track and Mr. Frumento also addressed the board.

8,000,000 Square Miles—But She Seizes More

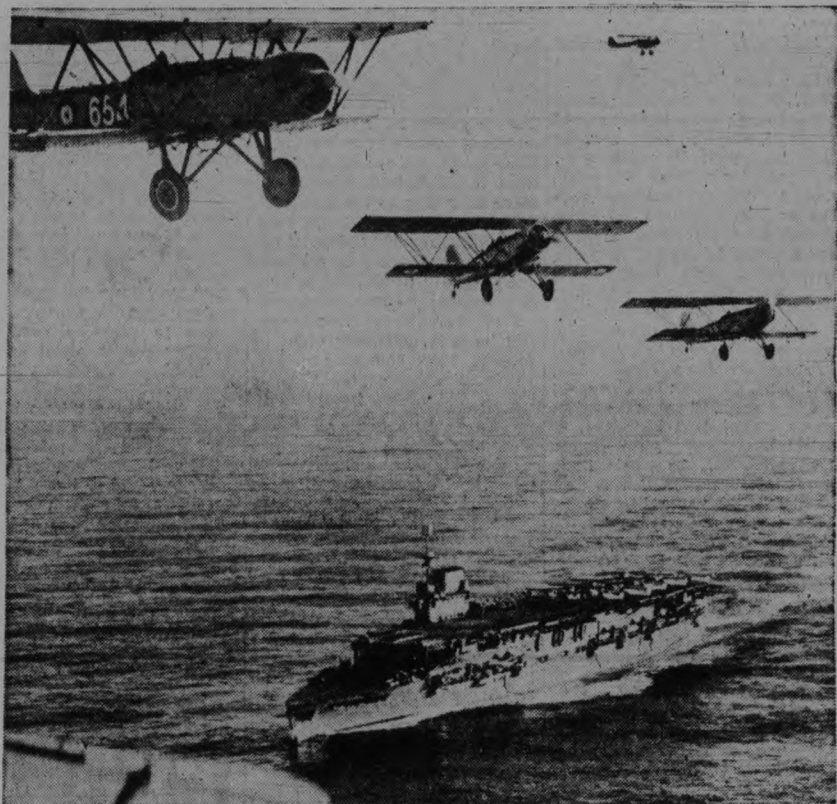

Huge spreading across the top of the world map lies the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics. The map gives some conception of the vast territory—8,000,000 square miles—the great population—more than 147,013,600—and the immensely valuable resources, shown by the figures on the map, which Russia commands. Russia has declared her intentions to stay neutral in the second World War, although last weekend she joined Germany in the new partition of Poland, to add to her already tremendous area what in comparison is merely a small parcel of land. She claims her action is merely to safeguard minorities of Russian blood. Safeguarded by her new Japanese armistice, committed to the nonaggression pact with Germany, Russia now has the world guessing.

NO. 1 ENEMY AT 'CHOW'—World-upsetter must eat when he's in the field, and here's Adolf Hitler (left), Reich's self-styled "first soldier" drawing his rations at a mobile kitchen near the Polish front. (Radiophoto).

BEFORE SHE WAS TORPEDOED—Late picture in war action of British aircraft carrier Courageous, reported "lost by submarine action" at an undisclosed spot off the coast of Great Britain. She carried a complement of 1,216 men. (Acme telephoto).

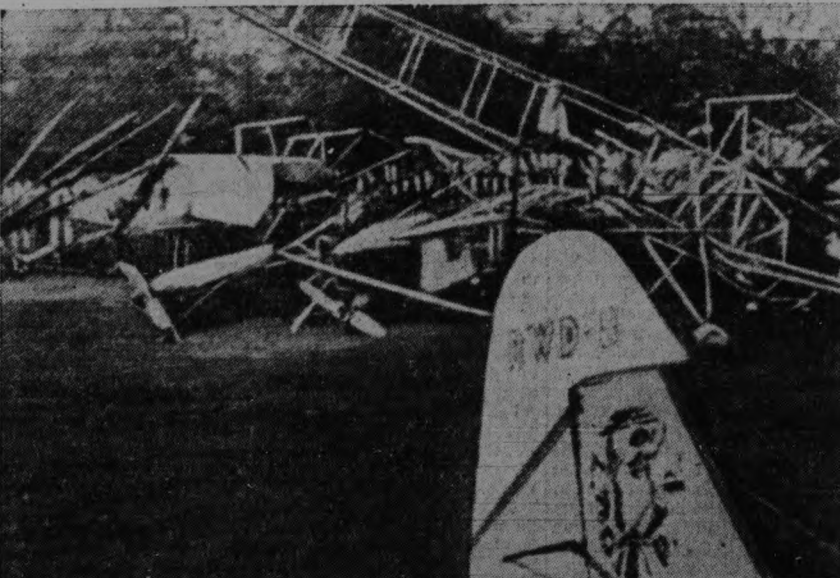

"OVER THE TOP" IN WARSAW—German troops use dismantled street cars as a shield while storming a Polish machine-gun nest in the suburbs of Warsaw. (Acme telephoto).

"NUFFING'S 'APPENED YET"—This sidewalk artist in Hyde Park attempts to lighten the anxiety of Londoners with this placard, which draws smiles from passersby.

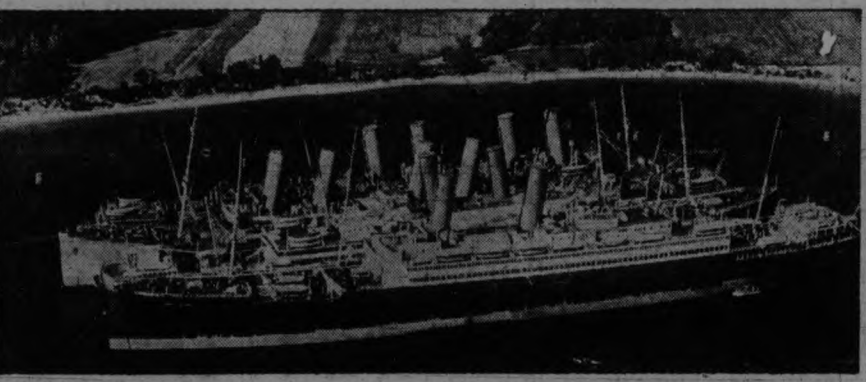

CHIVALRY TRADITIONAL WITH THE AIR FORCES—Honoring the bravery and the rank of their enemies, German officers, including aviators, attend funeral of French fliers shot down near Saarbruecken during an attack on the West Wall. (Acme radio-telephoto).

WAR PLANES DESTROYED—The crumpled wreckage pictured above is the remains of Polish planes after aerial bombardment of an unidentified airdrome by German fliers.

LEAD RUSSIAN ARMY ADVANCE—Great Russian tanks roll across the Polish eastern frontier as Stalin prepares to divide Poland with Hitler.

'GHOST FLEET' MAY COME TO LIFE—Uncle Sam's "ghost fleet" of 113 vessels—remnant of the famed "bridge of ships" to Europe in the World War—may be resurrected. Laid up since the war's end, they are in good condition. Above, some of the ships at Solomon's Island, Maryland.

TRANS-ATLANTIC DORMITORY—Among trans-Atlantic ships that safely outsped the dangers of a wartime trans-Atlantic crossing was the U.S. liner Roosevelt, which brought in 539 passengers, 135 over capacity. The photo shows the ship's great social hall, turned into an emergency dormitory, with some of the women passengers packing up for their arrival in New York.

POLISH SHIP DOCKS SAFELY—Eager to set foot on safe American soil after fleeing the European war, passengers crowd the decks of the Polish ship Batory as it arrives in New York. The Batory brought in 642 people who fled the conflagration in Europe.

Heavyweight Fight

Joe Louis Now
7 to 1 ChoiceSports
Mirror

By PETE SALLAWAY

BOB PASTOR has gone through 25 college football games as a blocking back and 46 professional prize fights without a mark. The dent in Joe Louis' challenger's nose is a memento of an automobile accident when he was a youngster. His only scar is an ugly one above the ankle, a souvenir of his amateurishness as a woodsman last fall. Pastor has never been cut in a fight. He has never bled. There isn't the slightest trace of a cauliflower ear. Of course that may all be changed after his meeting with the Brown Bomber tonight. Pastor must have something. Abe Attell was most concerned about an unmarked opponent. The famous featherweight champion believed in signs . . . signs that told him he was bumping into someone hard to hit.

Pastor has trained for his 20-rounder with Louis in the good old-fashioned way. His assortment of punches, blocking, slipping of blows and footwork against sparring partners of the highest type, and his condition have whirled such keen observers as Kid McCoy, trickiest of all fighting men, and Jack Kearns, who brought out Jack Dempsey, into ecstasies.

McCoy and Kearns give him a great chance provided he survives Louis' early fire.

A Pastor victory would be a richly-deserved reward for James J. Johnston, who has searched for a heavyweight champion for 40 years.

Jimmy Johnston, 64 now, has had five world champions, but never has come down in front with the big apple.

Bold Mike McTigue twice held the 175-pound leadership under his guidance. James J. handled welter rulers in Ted Kid Lewis and Pete Latzo, Lewis enjoying two terms. James J. had Harry Greb as the 150-pound king, and Johnny Dundee as feather foreman. He managed the brilliant British champion, Jim Driscoll, and Owen Moran.

He made a fortune with Phanting Phil Scott, the Swooning Swan.

During the height of the Jack Johnson white hope era, Johnston inserted ads in New York dailies inviting young men of considerable size to participate in a tournament after a period of free schooling. More than 5,000 applicants created a traffic jam in front of his Broadway office. The winner of the tournament quit cold in his first fight out of it.

When he believed he saw heavyweight possibilities in one Jim Sigman, Johnston spent $5,000 in his development which failed to materialize.

Bob Pastor turned to Johnston when Joe Welling, the one-time lightweight crack, died. It was Welling who developed the New York University lad as a simon-pure.

Johnston is supremely confident that he has attained his goal in Pastor.

He will be bitterly disappointed if the New York-bred warrior fails, but will continue the search. Jimmy Johnston will never be ruled out for not trying.

That is why he has remained at or near the top in the profession . . . as fighter, manager, matchmaker and promoter . . . for all these years.

DETROIT (AP)—After a lapse of nearly three years, champion Joe Louis tonight resumes his chase after the little imp who once eluded him and injured his pride.

Joe and Bob Pastor meet here before a crowd that is expected to reach the 40,000 mark, and the feeling is that the big Negro will catch and pulverize his quarry.

This time he will have 20 rounds in which to corner his man, instead of the 10 they fought in Madison Square Garden before Louis became champion.

Louis fully intends to knock Pastor kicking in the first round. Bookmakers around town are offering odds of 7 to 1 against Pastor's chances, and doing practically no business at all.

Pastor has a chance, of course. He is young, is an exceptionally clever boxer and hits pretty well. He claims he might knock Louis out.

It could happen, one supposes. After all, Jim Braddock was even a longer shot against Max Baer, Tony Galento was generally felt to be a set-up for Lou Nova last week in Philadelphia. Nothing is certain in boxing, particularly since fighters have their "on" night and their "off" nights.

Financially, the fight is assured success. Promoter Mike Jacobs had a $300,000 advance sale a couple of days ago, and is certain the fight will draw between $400,000 and $500,000, with some 40,000 or 50,000 of the faithful on deck.

Tennis

Veteran Tilden
Returns to U.S.

NEW YORK (AP)—The big "T" man is in town, with no more idea where the next bounce will take him than one of those fur-bearing tennis balls he practically skins with every serve.

There is only one "T" in tennis, and he is William Tate Tilden, the man who made big business out of a racquet. He arrived on the United States liner Washington with several hundred other hurry-homers, convinced that two and a half years abroad is just enough, particularly at this time.

He looks about the same as when he left, does "Big Bill." He still has that long, lean, hungry look. His thinning hair is perpetually at high tide, his eyelids droop sleepily, and his gestures are the same quick, flighty movements which intrigued galleries from Forest Hills to the Malay Peninsula.

And if he does say so himself, he never played better in his life than he's playing right now.

"We—Don Budge, Les Stofen, Ellsworth Vines and I—played quite a bit in England, and also Paris, Bordeaux and Marseilles," he said. "Budge is the greatest player I ever saw. He has everything. I think I won two out of nine matches with him. Stofen has improved tremendously."

"We were planning to leave for South Africa last Thursday, to start our world tour, but decided it wasn't such a good idea to be world touring right now."

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian wheat in store during the week ended September 15 totaled 221,952,832 bushels compared with 180,731,302 the previous week and 103,006,259 in the same week last year, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reports. Canadian wheat in the United States amounted to 8,276,000 bushels compared with 7,330,000 the previous week.

"It's over there the fight is being decided and if we don't get men over there we're not doing much to help."

Basketball

Westerns Back
From Long Tour

VANCOUVER (CP)—Vancouver Westerns came home last night from a two-month basketball tour of Japan with an enviable record—but traveling "on the cuff."

Manager Pete Winckler and eight of his bronzed charges reported 12 victories out of 19 starts, an escape from being stranded in Shanghai and a small spot in the Japanese anti-British campaign.

After playing six games in Japan, one in Manchukuo, three in Korea, six in Manila, two in Hongkong and one in Shanghai, they were en route to Tokyo to catch their ship home when war broke out. Their boat was held two days at Shanghai and they missed their connection home.

"Without funds we had to sign promissory notes to get here," Winckler said. "They wouldn't let us ashore and then they gave us five minutes to decide whether we were going to sail or stay in Shanghai. We decided to sail—so here we are."

"They played awful rough in Manila," the manager of the team that held the Dominion hoop crown in 1937, said. "We had to be escorted out by police once but we won four games out of six down there."

"The anti-British campaign was going on while we were in Japan but we had only one experience with it. In one game a section of the crowd yelled something in Japanese which we afterward learned was the equivalent of 'Down with the British.' Another section yelled something else which we later learned was 'Hurrah for the British.'"

Among other experiences, the team was dined by Prince Takamatsu, second brother of the Japanese Emperor.

LEFT LAST JUNE

The team—11 players and Manager Winckler—sailed on a Japanese liner from Vancouver for Tokyo June 21 on a tour sponsored by Japanese newspapers. All expenses were paid by their sponsors while they were in Japan.

Four of the players—guards Emmett Ritchie and Dick Wright and trainer Fred Bolton and Jimmy Bardsley, star forward, came home earlier by another route.

"The Japanese play quite a different brand of ball—from us," Winckler said, "but we couldn't learn much from them. They are light and fast and have a queer style around the net, jumping off both feet every time they make a shot."

"They still use the old laced ball, though, and we were hampered quite a bit by that. But I think we did pretty well. Of the seven games we lost, five were by but two points, two by four points and one by seven points."

"Colleges and all-star teams supply most of the basketball competition in Japan but down in Manila they have the game really organized under an association called the Philippine Amateur Athletic Federation."

"It's the sport down there and they have an arena that will hold 10,000. The biggest crowd we played for was at the Meiji Shrine in Tokyo and I would say there were 13,000 there."

Toronto to Freeze Out Communist Alderman

TORONTO (CP)—If Toronto's only Communist alderman, Stewart Smith, does not resign he will be literally "frozen out," says Mayor Ralph Smith.

Smith on Monday refused to resign from Toronto City Council despite the unanimous request of his fellow-councillors that he surrender his position because of his allegedly subversive statements.

Mayor Day said that on being informed Alderman Smith does not intend to resign, the council will proceed at its next meeting, October 2, to remove him from the works and parks committee.

Some Turley Again

Once again the stock of the Vancouver Island sire Somers Heir proved its superiority yesterday at the Willows when Mrs. Gwen Simon's Some Turley and Mrs. Frank Beban's Flying Heir finished in that order just a neck apart in the Gulf Islands Handicap at 6 furlongs and 30 yards.

They finished the distance in 1:14.25, which was three-fifths better than the fastest time of the meeting and only one-fifth off the track record.

Flying Heir is a full brother to the Simon mare, but just a year younger. They are both out of the dam Miss Turley.

Well beaten behind the pair were the hitherto undefeated His Selection, Wentworth Stable's Pandmint, Riverview Stable's Buck On, the speedy Simony gelding Killarney L. and the classy mare Beldad.

Public favorites had a hard day yesterday and only one of the first choices got home in front. Biggest surprise was that of Mrs. J. A. Stewart's two-year-old Rusty Mum, a filly by Dolan-Kolouri.

Making the second start of her career she scored an easy victory in the baby race despite swinging wide to the centre of the track at the head of the stretch.

C. G. Pierce sprung a mild upset with his nine-year-old mare Spring Violet, which he brought from the paddocks for this meeting. He started the mare last week and she showed a world of speed for half a mile, then folded up. Yesterday she made no mistakes and led from wire to wire.

A field of hurdlers returned to the flat for the mile and three-eighths fifth race, and it was F. H. Hammond's Favorsome that had the necessary stamina to get home in front, followed by Ben Wiggins and the favored Somers' Gift.

Pat West's Eagle Crest scored a ridiculously easy victory in the seventh event, having six lengths to spare over the public choice, Macleod Breeze.

Apprentice Jockey Hruschak's three winners were the riding feature of the day. He was aboard Some Turley, Pert Peggy in the first and Rusty Mum.

PLAY HARD FOR SOFTBALL HONORS—Jim Strassbaugh, Ohio State football star, roars safely into third base, but despite his speedy baserunning, Covington, Ky., team defeated Columbus, O., entry, 5 to 1, for the United States softball championship in Chicago.

TROTTERING RECORD

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Greyhound, sensational grey gelding from the stable of E. J. Baker of St. Charles, Ill., took possession of another world record yesterday when he trotted two miles in four minutes six seconds at the Indiana State fairgrounds.

His time was 4 1/2 seconds faster than that with which Peter Manning set the old record at North Randall, O., near Cleveland, August 15, 1925. Sep Palin was the driver.

Troops Get Bibles
With King's Message

LONDON (CP)—Pocket editions of the New Testament carrying a message from the King are issued by the British and Foreign Bible Society and the Scripture Gift Mission for the use of all serving with Britain's military forces and civil defence services.

"To all serving in my forces by sea or land or air, and indeed to all my people-engaged in the defence of the realm, I command the reading of this book," the King's message said.

"For centuries the Bible has been a wholesome and strengthening influence in our national life and it behooves us in these momentous days to turn with renewed faith to this divine source of comfort and inspiration."

Poynitz Manages Intercity Club

Dr. Arthur Poynitz was chosen manager of the newly-formed Victoria Football Club last night at a meeting held in the Y.M.C.A. The club will represent Victoria in the Pacific Coast Football League, and will meet its first out-of-town opposition here on September 24 at Athletic Park.

Magistrate Henry C. Hall, president of the Victoria and District Football League, was named president of the new club, and Ed Popham, league secretary, was chosen to handle the club's secretarial duties.

Five clubs will make up the Pacific Coast circuit. Besides Victoria there will be four mainland clubs, St. Andrews, Radials, North Shore and St. Saviours. Twelve games with each of the mainland teams playing here three times, are scheduled. Victoria Football Club eleven will make four trips to the mainland.

The new club will be built around the Victoria United of last year, and will carry 18 players, and they will be allowed to play in Coast League matches only.

First workout of the season will be held tomorrow night at Athletic Park at 7.30. All last year's members of the Victoria United and others interested in playing with the team, are asked to attend.

Magistrate Hall announced last night that five clubs, Esquimalt, Garrison, Thistles, Victoria West and Victoria City will play in the Victoria and District League this season. Playing dates for the loop have not been arranged. The suggestion that Sunday matches be arranged, may be carried out.

took the lead in the Coast Baseball League Shaughnessy play-offs last night as the Angels nipped the pennant-winning Seattle Rainiers 5 to 4, and Sacramento beat San Francisco, 4 to 1.

Two runs in the 10th inning gave Los Angeles the narrow win at Seattle. The Rainiers led until Los Angeles tied the count at 3 to 3 in the eighth, when Arnold Stutz drove in Paul Carpenter, who had singled.

In the extra frame, Stutz again drove in Carpenter with a double, and right fielder Jack Rothrock's single scored Stutz with the winning run.

Julio Bonetti, the league's leading pitcher, hurled the victory. He gave up 10 hits to 11 for Hal Turpin.

At San Francisco, the Seals' jinx for three years, southpaw Tony Freitas, had control in the pinches as he pitched Sacramento to victory. He kept 10 San Francisco hits fairly well spaced while the Senators got eight important blows off Sam Gibson, and Win Ballou, who took over the Seal hill in the eighth.

MAJOR LEAGUES

The accepted theory among big league managers in recent years has been that the best bet for stopping the New York Yankees is to feed them left-handers.

This theory has a certain amount of justification in the records. Since the Cincinnati Reds already are accepting ticket orders for next month's world series, it also must have entered the mind of manager Bill McKeechie.

But how long it stayed there is something else again. When it comes to effective southpaws, manager Bill is about as well-equipped as Poland is with submarines.

He tried to get by with one again yesterday, and the results were sad indeed. McKeechie called on Johnny Vander Meer to face the Phillies, but double-no-hit didn't face them long. He pitched to three men and filled the bases, threw three bad ones at the next batter, and promptly was through for the afternoon.

So were the Reds. They never did get out of that hole, lost the ball game, 13 to 1, and since the

Health Services Seen As Vital

Vital public health services will be more than ever necessary in wartime and must be kept up to full organization, Hon. G. M. Weir, Provincial Secretary, said today.

The minister said experts of the health department under Dr. H. E. Young, provincial health officer, are actively working with the civilian protection committees to ensure that adequate steps are taken to guard the public health.

The new board of directors will be chosen Friday afternoon when the final of the balloting will be held. Twelve members have been nominated for the directorate. They are: P. W. Bell, L. F. Five will be chosen for a two-year term and two in a one-year term. Jack Hartree, Thomas Watkins and Thomas L. Sturgess still have a year to serve on the directorate. The president will be elected by the directors.

Ernest H. Harris, B.C. director of the Canadian Junior Chamber of Commerce, who represented Victoria at the national convention in Calgary recently, will give his report on the convention.

B. I. Association
Addressing the Victoria British-Israel Association in the Y.M.C.A. hall last night on the subject, "The Only Way Out," E. W. Abraham, president of the association, stressed the fact that "as a so-called democracy we have been greatly to blame, ourselves, for the present war, even though Hitler may be the direct and immediate cause of it. We should have forgiven our enemies after the Great War, and bound up their wounds, instead of trying to squeeze as much as possible out of them in the way of reparations," he said.

He continued, "the only way out, now, is to return to God and the Bible, which contains the only remedy for the conditions of today. This war was foreseen thousands of years ago, and can only find the way out by studying the ancient prophets, and the whole Bible, for the solution. We must be prepared to give our lives, and everything we possess, in order to win this battle of right against might."

GUNS IN ACTION
On the western front, where the French general staff's morning communiqué reported that German artillery fire, the armies appeared to have been held in a lessening clarification of the diplomatic situation.

The French press published dispatches from Brussels reporting Germans were concentrating around Aachen, which, it was pointed out, is not on any of the direct routes leading to the front farther south where the French and German armies are fighting.

The French general staff, watching the situation closely, was reported taking precautions to meet "any eventuality."

What measures were being taken remained a military secret, but informed persons believed they included strengthening of French positions along the French-Belgian frontier with the British Army co-operating.

Official reports on the progress of hostilities claimed several successes and voiced satisfaction with operations on the naval front. A semi-official announcement said "four or five" German submarines had been sunk by French warships—these in addition to a U-boat destroyed Monday night.

Leniency Shown In Theft Case

An 18-year-old girl charged with theft was granted suspended sentence in the City Police Court this morning after the magistrate inferred a plea of not guilty would have resulted in the dismissal of the case for lack of evidence.

The girl pleaded guilty to a charge of stealing a radio from 17-D, Mainwaring. The plea indicated the girl had intended to get the radio improperly, but the charge was not completely borne out by the explanation of the circumstances, the court held.

Mr. Mainwaring testified the girl came to his store and wished to purchase a radio, which she agreed to pay for at 1.30 on the afternoon of the same day. She said she was employed in an office at Room 137, Pemberton Building.

When she failed to show up Mr. Mainwaring said he went to the Pemberton Building and found no such office existed. He then notified police.

Police said they recovered the radio at a second hand store, where the proprietor paid the accused $5 for it.

ASK COMPENSATION FOR MAN'S DEATH

In a letter written without prejudice, Tait & Marchant, acting for Mrs. W. J. Beecroft, today asked the city for assistance for Mrs. Beecroft as a result of the death of her husband, who succumbed to injuries sustained when he fell into an open manhole on View Street, August 9.

Mr. Beecroft died August 18. A coroner's jury declared the injuries sustained in the fall responsible for the death.

Tait & Marchant seek reimbursement for expenses to which the family was put through the accident. No amount is specified.

Restored Poland France's Goal

By JOHN H. MARTIN
PARIS (AP)—The French Government, facing collapse of its Polish ally under combined German and Russian assaults, adopted measures today to pursue the war "to definite victory." Premier Daladier's new war ministry at the same time said its union with Great Britain was "closer daily" and pledged that Poland, now facing dismemberment, would eventually be re-constituted.

French attention shifted to the Aachen (Aix-la-chapelle) sector opposite Belgium, where the Germans were reported massing reinforcements coming from Poland. French advisers asserted precautions already had been taken to meet any German repetition of the 1914 attack through Belgium to outflank the Maginot Line.

The cabinet communiqué, which was the first formal statement of French policy since the start of the European conflict September 3, implied firm rejection of any German overtures for peace on Nazi terms such as were read here into Adolf Hitler's speech at Danzig yesterday.

The new measures approved by the cabinet, which was in session for three hours, were described in the communiqué as "military, economic and financial." Their exact nature will become known only on publication in the official journal.

On the western front, where the French general staff's morning communiqué reported that German artillery fire, the armies appeared to have been held in a lessening clarification of the diplomatic situation.

ROTARY SPEAKER—Rev. Dr. W. A. Petzoldt, international lecturer and world traveler, who will address tomorrow's luncheon meeting of the Rotary Club in the Empress Hotel.

He will speak on the current war and America's part in it. Owing to the importance of the subject the club has extended the privilege of attending the luncheon to the general public. Advance reservations should be made through the Rotary office, Empire 7014.

Bar Germans Taking Assets

British Columbia, by special order today, took steps to prevent Germans taking money or other assets out of the province through the settlement of estates.

The order requires that a special license be obtained from the Minister of Finance before the probate of a will or granting of letters of administration for the estate of any German national.

"Where any license is granted," it says, "it shall be on condition that no portion of the assets shall be distributed or paid during the war to any beneficiary or creditor who is a national of the German Reich, wherever resident, or to anyone on his behalf, of whatever nationality, without express sanction of the crown, acting through the Minister of Finance; and if any distribution or payment is made contrary to this condition the grant of probate or letters of administration will be forthwith revoked."

Provision is made that a moderate sum may be paid to beneficiaries who are residents of Canada, so that dependents may be maintained.

Swiss See Big Battle Coming

BASEL (AP)—Swiss observers reported today French and Nazi forces apparently are ready for a tremendous "test by fire" of the German West Wall fortifications.

The French, these observers said, have completed mass movements of men and materials preliminary to a major offensive against the heavy fortifications guarding the Reich's western frontier.

At the same time, the Germans were said to have concentrated behind the defenses all the men and equipment that could be spared from the Polish campaign.

Action along the Blies River and Mandel Creek east of Saarbrücken, where French troops yesterday met resistance, led Swiss military men to conclude the French may have gone as far as they can with the use of patrol.

All along the western front, where the Moselle River and the Vosges foothills at Wissembourg, a distance of about 60 miles, the French are meeting resistance which can be smashed only by a large scale attack, observers declared.

Swiss tacticians strongly praised French military methods to date. They said General Maurice Gamelin, commander of the French-British forces, had gained offensive positions for his troops with minimum losses by the adroit use of small patrols.

It was the general view of Swiss observers that the French and British may strike through the hills in any one or all of three main sectors:

1. North of Sierck, with the Moselle River and neutral Luxembourg protecting the left flank and the Saar River the right.

2. Northwest from Saaregumines, which lies in the centre of the front between the Blies and Saar Rivers.

3. North from Bitche on the extreme right.

Military sources here agree that despite the apparent readiness of the French and British, days or even weeks might elapse before a drive is started. They believed, however, the push from the French view—should come while the Germans are occupied in Poland and before Polish lines of communication can be re-established as a supply lane from Soviet Russia.

Two Years On Three Charges

Norman Martin, alias Norman Dye, was sentenced to two years' imprisonment, less one day, with an additional month in jail on failure to pay a $200 fine, on charges of possessing drugs and breaking and entering, when he appeared for sentence before Magistrate Hall in the City Police Court this morning.

Awaiting sentence after pleading guilty to the drug charge, Martin entered similar pleas to charges of breaking and entering Aaronson's drug store at Fort and Cook Streets and Resthaven Sanitarium. From both premises he also secured cigarettes from the drug store and cash from Resthaven.

Martin pleaded for leniency yesterday on the grounds he was a tubercular subject and had been taking drugs for several years, since he was 16. He asked to be sent to Oakalla, where he could receive hospital treatment, rather than the penitentiary.

He will serve terms imposed in Oakalla.

In reference to Martin's plea, Magistrate Hall said: "I have considered certain factors which you outlined yesterday, that you are a young man and that you have been taking drugs for several years. I do not know if your statement about having tuberculosis is true but you do not appear a well man. . . . It seems the impelling motion in each case was the theft of drugs to carry on this terrible and unfortunate habit. . . . I hope this sentence will bring you to the realization of overcoming this habit."

On the drug charge Martin received two years less a day and $200 fine or one month and on each of the breaking and entering charges he received two years less a day, to run concurrently with the first.

Y.M.C.A. MAKES WAR WORK PLANS

The Red Triangle committee of the Y.M.C.A. held its first meeting last evening in the association building under the chairmanship of W. T. Straith, M.P.P.

The committee, similar to one formed during the Great War, plans to aid in the entertainment of troops during the present conflict.

A communication was read from the National Council of the Y.M.C.A. giving details of what could be done to help and a discussion of the possibilities proposed, was taken up by the committee members.

A committee composed of S. J. D. Clack and Alderman S. Okell, was appointed to look into the matter of accommodation although no immediate need was seen.

It was agreed that the facilities of the "Y" building would be utilized as far as possible in the work.

A committee of R. W. Mayhew, M.P., who was present at the meeting, Mr. Straith, W. W. Martin and Frank Paulding, general secretary of the Y.M.C.A., was formed to interview naval and military authorities as to what might be done.

Mr. Martin was chosen as head of an entertainment committee and P. E. Nicolie was appointed secretary of the group.

A public appeal for magazines, cards and games was announced by the committee. Anyone having anything that might prove useful for the troops can leave them at the Y.M.C.A. and the committee will see that they are distributed.

Federal Building Here to Proceed

Plans for the new federal building, at the corner of Government and Yates Streets, are being prepared by C. Elwood Watkins, and there is no indication the project will be held up by the war, according to R. W. Mayhew, M.P., who returned yesterday from attending the special war session of Parliament at Ottawa.

Mr. Mayhew commented upon the offers of hundreds of Victorians to serve the country in the present emergency. "These offers will be sorted by a committee set up for the purpose at Ottawa," he said.

Thanks of the Kiwanis Club for co-operation given it by the city during the recent Kiwanis Pacific Northwest International Convention, was conveyed to the council in a letter from H. M. Diggon.

LOSES APPEAL ON POSSESSION

Satisfied that his association with persons in physical possession of a stolen motor was such that it merited the trial judge's finding of guilty under the Criminal Code, the Court of Appeal today dismissed the appeal of John Delaney from conviction and a six months' sentence on that count.

Delaney appeared before the court yesterday in person to plead his appeal. At that time question arose over evidence of his possession of the stolen articles. Mr. Justice Sloan and Mr. Justice O'Halloran were not entirely satisfied on the issue, but reached agreement today as the appeal was continued.

The appellant protested there was no evidence in the transcript to show he had possession of the motor in question, but the court found the trial judge had proceeded correctly under the section of the code in pronouncing the conviction.

Carew Martin appeared for the Crown.

Sir Richard and Lady Lake, who were aboard the torpedoed liner Athenia, are remaining for the present at Hollywood, near Belfast, with their son, John Lake, who is in the army, according to a letter received from them by their family in Victoria.

They said they were both quite well and suffered no ill effects from their experience, during which Lady Lake rowed a lifeboat for five hours, until they were picked up by a rescue vessel.

At present they have no plans for returning to Canada, but hope to come home as soon as possible, they said. The survivors are waiting in the British Isles until safe passage can be arranged.

NATIONALITY BAR TO JOINING ARMY

Naturalization laws of Canada have apparently frustrated the efforts of at least one United States citizen to join Canada's forces against Germany.

The young man, anxious to enlist with a local unit, was informed he could join only if he were a British subject. He applied for naturalization at the Court House, where he was told the process of becoming a Canadian required about five months. He asked emergent action to permit him to enlist. But the laws require that his application should be posted here for at least three months. In addition to that time, there is the delay in communications between Victoria and Ottawa, which would extend the term of waiting considerably.

The Rise and Fall of Babylon

III—BABYLON'S MARDUK

When the art of writing was young in the land which contained Babylon, there was a strange custom. Each city seems to have taken a special god as its own. Present-day people speak of those olden deities as "pagan gods."

There came battles between the cities, and it was supposed that the soldiers were helped by the special gods of their cities. It was believed that the finish of the battle showed which was greater. The captured city was forced to bow before the god of the conqueror.

We may trace such stories in olden writings found in the ruins of Babylon. Take the city of Nippur, for instance. Its special deity was Enlil, the storm-god. People often called Nippur "the Place of Enlil." A song which was sung in the city spoke of Enlil as "the lord of lands" and "the guide of his people."

Another god in Nippur was Ninib, and he appears to have held first place before the city was conquered.

For a long time, the city of Kish had a chief deity named Zamama. This deity had to give way later to Shamash, the sun-god.

Among all the gods and goddesses of the country, the special god of Babylon came to be first. He was known commonly as Marduk, but sometimes was called Bel or Merodach. The latter names for him are used in an account of Babylon which appears in the Bible.

Marduk rose to his high place after Babylon won power over a number of cities in and near the valley of the Euphrates River. Among these cities were Ur, Kish, Lagash, Sippar and Nippur.

The songs written about him show that he was thought to be greater than Enlil or Shamash. Here is the meaning of one of the songs:

"You are the strong Marduk, the mighty lord of gods. The other gods bow before you. You are the founder of cities, and you open fountains. You look on the homes of the wicked, and take away their power. You are above the great Ea, your father."

Another song had this meaning:

"I pay honor to your name, oh Marduk, the strong one of the gods. You are all-wise and perfect in strength. You are the high ruler, and you hold the star-filled heavens in your grasp."

Belief in Marduk as the greatest of the gods lasted most of the time for 2,500 years. Yet in that time there came a rival, who for a time took first place. The rival's name was Ashur, and we shall speak of him on a later day.

HOROSCOPE

THURSDAY, September 21

This is read as an unimportant day in planetary rule, but adverse aspects are strong. It is a date for caution in buying or selling. It is well to postpone initiative. Judgment may be overly pessimistic.

Young folk may appear selfish in their desire to lead their own lives. They should be wisely led and taught the importance of service to their fellow beings.

Although government economies will be widely discussed taxes will continue to burden the average citizen. There will be certain easements to encourage commercial enterprise. Coming months, however, should be prosperous according to recent standards. Fluctuations in the stock market will be extreme.

South America is to be used as a means of harassing the United States. Dictators will seek favor in various indirect ways, especially concerning economic regulations and trade agreements. France continues under a threatening way.

Children born on this day probably will be ambitious, resourceful, inventive and successful. These subjects of Virgo usually practice small economies so they can spend lavishly.

THIS CURIOUS WORLD

ANSWER: True. "Mountain canaries" are those faithful old burros used by mining prospectors. The name probably came from their singing bray, so different from that of a canary.

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

DEAR MISS DIX—I am in love with a girl, but she is in love with a married man who has a family. I might mention that this girl is also married. And don't get me wrong. She is a mighty fine girl and doesn't know how foolish she is being. But I can't stand by and see her throw herself away because I am afraid this married man does not love her as he should. Should I tell the man's wife and the girl's husband of their affair? Should I tell her that everybody knows about it and is gossiping about her? But what if they are very much in love? I don't know what to do.

A PUZZLED MAN.

Answer: I don't wonder that you are puzzled. It must give even Cupid himself a headache to try to straighten out the romance of so many persons who are in love with the ones they shouldn't love.

Of course, the real solution of the problem is for the married man and the married woman to break off their illicit romance and go back to their lawful spouses and behave themselves. No real happiness ever comes of wrongdoing, and neither one of them could have much peace of mind if they had bought the right to be together by breaking up two homes and orphaning a lot of little children.

Nor is there much joy in a married man and a married woman carrying on an undercover liaison. Lying and cheating those who trust them. Meeting in squalid places. Going in fear of the scandal that they know is already smearing them. The only happy love is the love that is clean and unshamed.

You are certainly optimistic if you think this married woman doesn't know how wrong is the thing she is doing, and you needn't be afraid that the man does not love her as he should. She doesn't rate much. The chances are that she will get just what she deserves in the end and that he will be as unfaithful to her as she has been to her own husband.

I certainly advise you to keep your fingers out of this mess. It is not your duty to tell the betrayed husband and wife of their mates' disloyalty. They will find it out soon enough without your aid. And it will do no good to remonstrate with the girl. If she will not listen to the voice of her own conscience, she will not hearken to you.

Hitler Convicts Self In Speech, Say British

LONDON (CP)—The text of the British statement on Fuehrer Hitler's Danzig broadcast of yesterday follows:

Herr Hitler's speech is full of the gross misstatements which usually fall from his lips and to which the world has now become accustomed.

It is surprising that a man in his responsible position should venture to convict himself so palpably out of his own mouth.

Thus for example we now hear from Herr Hitler:

"At that time there lived in Poland a man of energy and action. I tried in common with Marshal Pilsudski to find a solution which would secure peace. In this we put aside the Versailles Treaty and attempted to reach a temporary solution.

"After the death of Marshal Pilsudski however, the mortal fight against all Germans in Poland and began anew. This fight naturally embittered and ruined the relations between the two nations.

"It was possible for us only with difficulty to look on while the German minority was barbarously ill-treated.

"The world, which is always shaken to the depths when a Polish Jew, who has recently emigrated to Germany is deported, remained dumb in the face of this ill-treatment."

So says Herr Hitler. The world remained dumb in the face of this ill-treatment for the very good reason that from the time of Marshal Pilsudski's death until this spring Herr Hitler represented his relations with Poland as excellent.

FRIENDSHIP THEN
No word was said in Germany of the maltreatment of Germans in Poland. On the contrary, this is how Herr Hitler himself described his friendship for Poland:

In the Reichstag on May 21, 1935: "We recognize the Polish state as the home of a great patriotic nation with the understanding and the cordial friendship of candid nationalists."

In the Reichstag on February 20, 1938: "In the fifth year which followed the coming into force of the first great international conference concluded by the Reich, we state with genuine admiration that our relations with that state with which we had perhaps the greatest antagonism, are not only characterized by a detente, but that in the course of the past years, these relations resulted in a more and more friendly drawing together.

"I know full well that this is chiefly due to the fact that at that time there was not a western parliamentarian in Warsaw but a Polish marshal whose commanding personality realized the importance for Europe of such a detente between Germany and Poland."

"The value of this was questioned by many at the time, but it has now passed the test, and I may well say that since the League of Nations has ceased its continuous efforts at disturbance in Danzig and appointed a new commissioner, a man of personality, this most dangerous place for the peace of Europe has entirely lost its menacing significance.

"The Polish state respects the national conditions in this country and that city and Germany respects Polish rights. Thus it was possible to find the way to an understanding which, emanating from Danzig, in spite of the assertion of many mischief makers, has succeeded in removing all friction between Germany and Poland and made it possible to work together in true amity."

FOR TEN YEARS
Once again in the Sports Palace on September 26, 1938, Herr Hitler said: "Poland was ruled by a man and not by a democracy. With his collaboration it was possible to bring about in less than one year an agreement which to begin with excluded the danger of a clash for a period of 10 years. We are all convinced that this agreement will result in a lasting appeasement. We realize that there are two nations which must live side by side and neither of which is in a position to eliminate the other.

"A state with 33,000,000 inhabitants will always strive to have an outlet to the sea. It was therefore necessary to find a way to an understanding. This way has been found and will be consolidated. . . . This was really a peaceful action which is worth more than the whole of the babbling at the palace of the League of Nations in Geneva."

To return to the present (yesterday's) speech:

Herr Hitler adds further on with reference to his proposals for a settlement: "I do not know in what state of mind the Polish government could have been to reject such proposals."

This is what he says now: "We have found that it is in the best interests of both our nations to have an understanding with each other. Thus the British assertion of the unlimited world political aspirations of Germany is finally contradicted. We shall never again fight a war in the interests of the western democracies. Make a note of that my English gentlemen."

RUSSIAN POISON
This is what he said then (in the Reichstag on January 30, 1937):

"Bolshevism is the doctrine of world revolution, of world destruction. . . . As far as Germany is concerned I do not want to leave any doubt as to the following:

"1. We look upon Bolshevism as upon an intolerable danger to the world.

"2. We shall try and keep this danger away from the German Volk (people) by every means at our command.

"3. We are, therefore, endeavoring to make the German Volk as immune as possible from this contagion.

"For this it is necessary that we should avoid all close contacts with the bearers of these poisonous bacilli. . . . I request the German workers to avoid all contacts and relations with these international parasites and consequently it will never occur that one will see me dining and wining with them. Furthermore, any treaty links between Germany and present-day Bolshevik Russia would be without any value whatsoever."

Again at the Nuremberg party rally on September 14, 1937:

"I reject most emphatically to be joined up with those whose program is the destruction of Europe and who do not even try to conceal this program. To refuse to collaborate with such elements does not mean to isolate oneself but to secure oneself."

NEVER TO BE FRIENDS
Again, in the Reichstag on February 20, 1938:

"There is only one state with which we have never sought close relations and with which we do not want to have any close relations. I mean Soviet Russia."

"We must look upon Bolshevism as upon the incarnation of the destructive qualities of human nature, and we do so even more than ever before."

There is no question of Great Britain waging war, as Herr Hitler declares, on German women and children.

The German government have already declared that there are ample stocks of food in Germany, but the restriction of the import of raw materials is not a measure which the German government can legitimately claim.

Finally, Herr Hitler's account of the circumstances attending the

Canada to Organize Two Divisions Small War Craft Will Be Built

OTTAWA (CP)—Following is the text of the statement issued last night by Hon. Ian Mackenzie, Defence Minister, on organization of two divisions of Canadian troops as an expeditionary force:

On September 8, during the special session of Parliament the Prime Minister, speaking in the House of Commons, made the following statement:

"There are certain measures of economic, naval and air co-operation which are obviously necessary and desirable and which it is possible to undertake without delay. I have already referred to economic measures. The information we have obtained indicates the most immediate and effective further means of co-operation would be a rapid expansion of air training, and of air and naval facilities, and the dispatch of trained air personnel. These measures we propose to institute immediately."

In developing the government program, the objective is to ensure that Canada makes the most effective contribution to the successful prosecution of the war.

In order to determine the maximum effective contribution that can be made by this country, we have been in consultation with the government of the United Kingdom.

Based on the information received as to methods of contribution and the order of importance of the various forms of contribution which Canada could make, the government has developed its program. It is a program which endeavors to put first things first and to co-ordinate Canada's effort with that of the United Kingdom in the most effective way.

As has been anticipated, the British government has indicated that Canada would be of most assistance at once by facilitating the purchase by the United Kingdom of essential supplies in this country. This will involve immediately the "gearing-up" of Canadian industry to meet the heavy demands and finding some way whereby Canadian dollars may be made available to the British government to purchase the needed supplies in this country. In the first instance, this will probably involve repatriation of Canadian securities held in London and, at a later stage, the granting of credits.

NAVAL PERSONNEL

With regard to the services, representations received would indicate that what is most desired are naval craft, naval personnel, and naval facilities, trained air personnel, and in the militia field, primarily men with technical training and those belonging to such services as the medical, engineering and artillery branches.

With regard to general enlistment, the policy is to avoid indiscriminate recruitment and to proceed along well-ordered lines, as circumstances render desirable.

Specifically, in regard to the naval services, measures already taken are, in a general way, as follows:

(1) Our naval forces are on duty on both coasts;

(2) We are co-operating with the British naval forces for the protection of our east coast ports;

(3) We are assisting in the protection of departing convoys for a considerable distance from the Canadian coast;

(4) Mine sweeping operations have been actively developed;

(5) A very considerable number of auxiliary vessels are on duty;

(6) Certain other escort ships will be made available as rapidly as possible;

(7) Our anti-submarine defences are being largely expanded and will be extended to locations hitherto unprotected;

(8) Routing officers and examination staffs are at their posts;

(9) Measures are being taken for progressive enlistment of naval personnel up to a number approximately double the present strength; for the improvement of port facilities, and for the construction of a large number of anti-submarine and mine sweeping craft. Whether larger ships will be constructed in Canada will be a matter for careful consultation with the outbreak of war is a travesty of the facts.

He was determined on war and hoped to the last that Great Britain would not fulfil her treaty obligations to Poland.

It was only two days after the invasion of Poland, when no reply had been received to the British communication, that an ultimatum was addressed to the German government.

British government. The program of construction will be so co-ordinated with that of the United Kingdom that the efforts of Canada will be exerted in the most helpful direction.

INTENSIFIED AIR TRAINING

In regard to the air force; the government is making an immediate contribution of trained air personnel, which will necessarily be limited due to the needs of our own training. The government has today authorized a plan of intensified air training in Canada so that there may be available a progressively increasing number of pilots and airmen for active service.

It is anticipated that civilian pilots will co-operate with our trained R.C.A.F. pilots, both in the initial contribution, and in the carrying out of the training plan.

In regard to the militia services; the regular mobilization order was issued in anticipation of a declaration of war. Fifty thousand men are now serving.

Vulnerable points throughout the country are being protected in co-operation with the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, and with the provincial authorities in accordance with a prearranged plan.

In view of intimations recently received from the United Kingdom, more definite plans can now be made regarding our militia services. As already announced, it has been decided to organize and train a division to be available as an expeditionary force, if and when required. For that purpose those now enlisted will be permitted to volunteer for service in Canada, or elsewhere, and will be retested. A second division will be similarly recruited and kept under arms as a further measure of preparedness. Pending the organization of these two divisions further recruiting will be deferred. This will mean that there will be training in Canada two divisions, plus the troops required for protecting vulnerable points, and for coast and fortress defence.

SEATTLE DROPS PLAYOFF BATTLE TO LOS ANGELES

St. Louis Cardinals turned back the Brooklyn Dodgers, 6 to 1, had their first-place margin reduced to two and a half games.

ROOKIE HURLS WELL
The Cards got fine pitching yesterday from an unexpected source. Max Lanier, rookie southpaw who has been up before, gave Brooklyn five hits while his mates pounded out 14 safeties to break the Dodgers' five-game winning streak and push them a notch deeper into fourth place.

That push was aided by the Chicago Cubs' 3 to 2 decision over the New York Giants, gained chiefly through Hank Leiber's homer, a wild pitch by Harry Gumbert that put the deciding run on base and another effective relief trick by Charley Root.

In the other National League engagement, Paul Waner's triple and single ran his consecutive-game batting streak to 20 games, moved him into second place in the league hitting parade, and helped the Pittsburgh Pirates down the Boston Bees, 5 to 3.

The champion Yankees notched their 100th victory, 6 to 2, over the Chicago White Sox, to top American League activities. The second-place Boston Red Sox improved their claim by beating the St. Louis Browns, 6 to 2. The Washington Senators nosed out the Cleveland Indians, 10 to 9, despite an Indian triple play. The Detroit Tigers whipped the Philadelphia Athletics, 8 to 4, with the aid of Hank Greenberg's 30th homer.

LEGION PLEDGES FULL SUPPORT

OTTAWA (CP)—With the assurance of Prime Minister Mackenzie King that the government would give full consideration to their suggestions the members of the dominion executive council of the Canadian Legion continued their meeting today.

Enthusiasm was expressed by the Legion officers at the declaration of the defence minister last night that Canada would raise two divisions for overseas service if needed and would otherwise assist Britain.

The executive council has sent the following cable to the British Empire Service League, parent body of the principal ex-service men's organizations in the Empire:

"The dominion executive council in emergency session assembled desire to assure our sister organizations of the British Empire Service League, especially the British Legion, of the firm determination of the Canadian Legion to utilize all resources at its command to support the common war effort of the Empire. Our hearts go out to the people of the mother country in this time of trial and soon Canadian troops will again be fighting side by side with their British comrades on land, at sea and in the air. In this struggle, as in 1914 to 1918, the British Empire shall emerge victorious."

Cabinet Change Gives Rogers Defence Post

OTTAWA (CP)—Hon. Norman MacLeod Rogers, 45-year-old native of Nova Scotia and former university professor, today took over control of the Department of National Defence, succeeding Hon. Ian Mackenzie, who has headed the department since the government was formed in 1935.

This was the major move in a cabinet shuffle announced late last night, in which Prime Minister Mackenzie King changed the portfolios of four of the ministers.

Mr. Mackenzie now holds the portfolio of Pensions and National Health, succeeding Hon. C. G. Power, who becomes Postmaster-General, while Hon. Norman MacLarty, who held that portfolio since January 23, 1939, becomes Labor minister.

The cabinet changes followed closely on rumored changes which also involved appointment of Wallace R. Campbell, head of the Ford

Mr. Rogers was professor of history at Acadia University, and later was admitted to the bar of Nova Scotia. In 1927 he became private secretary to Prime Minister Mackenzie King, and from 1929 to 1935 he was professor of political science at Queen's University.

MACKENZIE'S CAREER
Mr. Mackenzie, who has taken over the Pensions and Health Department, finds himself at home in his new surroundings, which will bring him in close contact with war veterans. He has taken keen interest in the affairs of the ex-service men.

Mr. Mackenzie is 49 years old, a native of Assynt, Scotland, a barrister with degrees of M.A. and LL.B. from Edinburgh University. He took honors in classics and specialized in Celtic languages with two years' research work in Ireland.

Re-elected in 1924 and 1928, Mr. Mackenzie resigned from the Legislature to become minister of immigration in the Mackenzie King government just before its defeat in the 1930 general election.

Mr. Mackenzie has been a member of the House of Commons continuously since 1930, and when the Liberal administration was formed in 1935 he became Minister of National Defence.

Major C. G. Power, who has left the pensions and health department and become postmaster-general, was born at Silbury, Que. January 18, 1888. He has been a member of the House of Commons continuously since 1917, representing Quebec South.
